Hitler Returns From Warsaw for Vital Address

LULL IN FIGHTING PRECEDES SPEECH AS NATIONS WAIT

Britain Rushes Ahead With Plans for War on Eve of Possible Nazi Overtures for Peace.

By The Associated Press. Reichsfuehrer Hitler celebrated the success of his light-war against Poland yesterday with a triumphal visit to Warsaw as a prelude to his world-awaited declaration today before the reichstag.

Unusual secrecy surrounded his one-day round trip from Berlin to Warsaw, but that secrecy was matched by the lack of speculation in the Berlin press concerning today's speech.

A lull in the military operations on the western front was interpreted as a period of waiting to see whether a peaceful way out of the conflict with the western powers should develop.

Speaks 5 a. m. Today. Hitler was scheduled to speak for about one and three-quarter hours today, beginning at noon (5 a. m. Atlanta time).

Foreign observers said they expected the fuhrer would attempt to fasten upon Great Britain responsibility for continuing the European war.

The general reaction to speeches by British Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Lord Halifax and French Premier Daladier was that the allied nations had shown little readiness to avail themselves of a German-Russian peace offer.

See Hitler Adamant. Observers asserted they took it for granted therefore that Hitler would repeat Germany's determination to fight and win the war if the peace maneuvers definitely were spurned.

Meanwhile Britain went ahead with diplomatic and economic war preparations on the eve of possible peace overtures by Hitler in the conflict which thus far has failed to develop a major western engagement.

High British military officials devoted their attention to a military delegation from Turkey, whose Dardanelles forts control the maritime backdoor to eastern

Peachtree 'Pirate' Raids Northern College

Oh, for the life of a pirate! This beautiful buccaneer is Miss Aileen Oliver Collison, of 315 Pine Valley road, hostess with other co-eds at the University of Pennsylvania at a Pirates' ball, which is a part of the early social program at the university. The Atlantian is a member of the sophomore class.

Atlanta Girl To Reign in Philadelphia

Miss Collison Will Be Hostess at Pennsylvania Pirates' Ball.

Wider spreads the fame of the girls of Peachtree street whom James Montgomery Flagg described as the most beautiful girls in the world. Now comes Miss Aileen Oliver Collison, of 315 Pine Valley road, Atlanta, has been selected, because of her pulchritude, to be co-hostess with the most beautiful girls attending the University at the Pirates' ball, the chief event of the social season at the university on the banks of the Schuylkill.

And like a pirate, she is to wear all the dangerous habiliments that will suit the occasion. If, for instance, you should be on the lookout for a pirate, the description of Miss Collison is age 18 (last Tuesday), and she tips the scales at 118 well-balanced

PEARSON ALLOWS TWO HITS AS YANKS WIN SECOND, 4-0

His Great Pitching Ties 33-Year-Old Record; Dahlgren Gets Homer; Play Again on Saturday

By SID FEDER.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—In one of the greatest of all World Series pitching performances, mild-mannered Marcellus Monte Pearson handcuffed the Cincinnati Reds with two lone singles today to lead the Yankees to the second straight triumph in their skyrocketing drive toward a fourth straight world championship.

Aided by the completely unlooked-for heavy-duty batwork of Babe Dahlgren, the generally accepted "weak sister" of the Yankee hitting order, who added a homer and double to his timely two-bagger of yesterday's victory, Pearson paced the American league kings to a 4-to-0 conquest, thereby bringing them to their halfway mark of the current series.

For seven and one-third innings, as a throng of 59,791 fans sat tensed and "oohed" and "ahhed" with every pitch, the door of the hall of fame opened wide and beckoned to the sturdy right-hand curve-baller from California. In that stretch, the Reds didn't even come close to getting a safe hit, a string which equalled for Pearson the hitless series run set by Herb Pennock, ace southpaw of the 1927 championship Yankees, against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Then, just when fingers were "crossed" for Monte to become the first flinger in the world series history to hurl a no-hit, no-run game, the spell was broken. Big Ernie Lombardi, the slow-footed but dangerous hitting catcher of the National League champions, stepped up with one out in the eighth inning and lined the first pitch to him over second base for a single. After that, Bill Werber's ground single to left with two away in the ninth was just an anti-climax.

With all due credit to the 180-pound quiet right-hander from California, who pitched a no-hitter against the Cleveland Indians during the regular season

NEUTRALITY BILL BLOC IS CONFIDENT

Pittman Thinks Between 64 and 68 Senators Will Support the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Supporters of the administration's neutrality bill expressed confidence tonight that they had gained ground in the first three days of senate debate, although some of the opposition's most forceful orators have attacked the measure.

Chairman Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, of the senate foreign relations committee, leader of the fight for the administration bill, said it appeared that between 64 and 68 senators would vote for it. An expression of gratification over progress of the fight also came from the White House. Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters that signs of senate vote changes were "very satisfactory." He declined to elaborate.

On the other hand, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, asserted that the administration had no more than 39, "or possibly 40," sure votes for repeal.

Reds Gain Sweeping Powers From Latvia

Moscow Extends Influence Over Another Neighbor, Moves Step Nearer Domination of Northern Baltic; Air Fields, Naval Bases Are Granted.

By WITT HANCOCK.

MOSCOW, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Soviet Russia extended her influence over a second western neighbor today and moved a step nearer domination of the northern Baltic through sweeping concessions gained in a 10-year mutual assistance accord with Latvia. The pact, resembling closely an agreement reached a week ago with another little Baltic state, Estonia, gave Russia the right to establish several air fields, naval bases at the Latvian ports of Liepaja (Libau) and Ventspils (Windau) and a base for shore artillery to "protect Riga bay."

Stalin Drives Bargain. Joseph Stalin joined Premier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov in driving home the bargain through which Latvia granted Russia the privilege to place a "limited" number of Soviet air, naval and land forces in Latvia. Under the Russian-Estonian agreement, the Soviet Union obtained the right to establish naval and air bases and garrisons for 25,000 soldiers on Estonian soil.

Diplomatic observers considered a similar arrangement to be certain to come from current negotiations with Lithuania, third of the tier of Baltic states on the west.

Turkey Cautious. Turkey, meanwhile, with a diplomatic mission in Moscow and a military one in London, appeared to be walking the tight rope between Russian-German influence on the one hand and British-French on the other.

Liepaja, one of the Latvian ports in which Russia was given naval rights in today's accord, is close to German-occupied Memel, which the Nazis acquired from Lithuania last March 22.

This fact emphasized the belief in diplomatic quarters that the strengthening of the Soviet position in the Baltic might be aimed at any possible further German moves there as well as at Britain. The pact was signed in the

NAZI INFORMATION HELD INCREDIBLE BY WHITE HOUSE

Flotilla of Naval and Coast Guard Ships, However, Will Meet U. S. Liner as Precaution.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The White House announced late today receipt of a warning from the German navy that the United States liner Iroquois, now somewhere in the North Atlantic with a full load of American passengers, would be sunk near the American coast.

Who would do the sinking was not made clear. The German admiralty, which previously had denied sinking the British liner Athenia on which some American lives were lost, said the sinking of the Iroquois "would be accomplished through a repetition of circumstances which marked the loss of the steamship Athenia." German sources had accused the British of sinking the Athenia

Propaganda

The report of the warning given the United States by Germany that the steamship Iroquois would be sunk and indicating that a British or French submarine would fire the torpedo is credited in foreign circles to the subtle Nazi propaganda bureau.

The question is asked, what would be the result on the embargo bill if a German U-boat now sink the Iroquois and a British or French submarine could be blamed for the disaster?

Or, if no sinking or attack takes place, will Germany be able to convince some "on-the-fence" senators to vote against the new embargo bill?

We all must look into every item from Europe for propaganda.

while the London government blamed a German submarine.

The White House expressed incredulity that the information supplied by Grand Admiral Raeder, of the German navy, could be correct with the statement that "we don't believe as a matter of fact that many people in the United States will believe the report is true or could be true."

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters that the White House did not wish to create any alarm over the situation. He stated it was believed that no

Roosevelt Text On Ship Warning

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's announcement of measures to protect the steamship Iroquois follows:

After thorough discussion at the meeting of the cabinet (this afternoon), and because it is felt that there is no reason for withholding the following facts from the public, this information is given out:

Yesterday the head of the German navy, Grand Admiral Raeder, officially informed the American government, through the United States naval attaché in Berlin, that according to information on which he relied, an American ship, the Iroquois, is to be sunk when it nears our American east coast.

The sinking of the Iroquois, Admiral Raeder said, would be accomplished through a repetition of circumstances which marked the loss of the steamship Athenia. The S. S. Iroquois, formerly in our coastwise trade, was chartered by the maritime commission recently to go to Ireland to bring back Americans who had been caught in Europe at the outbreak of the war.

The Iroquois sailed from Ire-

Speeches From Britain, France Held Expressions of Victory Resolve

By PERTINAX

By The North American Newspaper Alliance.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—(By Wireless)—The speeches delivered in succession by Prime Minister Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Halifax and Premier Daladier must be interpreted as expressing the firm resolve of the British and French governments to continue the war until full victory has been won.

Probably in America some commentators must have believed that a contradiction could be detected between phrases in those addresses which said no promise or assurance received from Chancellor Hitler would be regarded as valid, and other passages to the effect

FAMILY WILL SING
AT TASTY MEAT PIESDinner To Be Happy Affair
With One of These Dishes.

By SALLY SAVER.
"When the pie was opened,
The birds began to sing;"

If there is a member of your family who cannot sing, they will whistle their approval of a tasty, bubbling meat or chicken pie. Cook it in your prettiest baking dish or casserole, top it with biscuits, with rich biscuit dough, or with mashed potatoes put through a pastry tube and bring it to table fairly oozing with goodness. With such a pie for the main dish Sunday dinner or any other dinner will be a happy affair.

Let's see how to make some good meat pies, for they are well received in the very best circles and are renowned for their economy because the cheaper cuts of meat serve excellently in them as do older fowls a little too large for frying.

Chicken Pie.
Chicken (about 4 lbs.) Cut in pieces and simmered in salted wa-

Bubbling Meat Pie Popular Sunday Choice

Meat or chicken pie steaming and oozing savory juices is recommended for Sunday dinner. Brought to table in the dish in which it was baked and served with the crispest of green salads, it makes a delightful and aromatic main dish, reminding old and young of the nursery rhyme, "When the pie was opened!"

ter until tender.

- 1 onion, sliced.
- 3-4 cup celery, diced.
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley.
- 1-2 pound mushrooms, sliced

(optional).

- 1-4 cup butter or margarine.
- 3 tablespoons flour.
- Salt and pepper.
- 1 hard cooked egg, sliced.

Rich, baking-powder biscuit dough.

Remove chicken from stock in which it was cooked and separate meat from bones. Add onion and parsley to stock and simmer 30 minutes, and strain. Sauté mushrooms in margarine; stir in flour, add 2 cups stock gradually cooking until thick. Season to taste, and add chicken and turn into a lightly greased casserole or baking dish. Cover with egg slices and then with rich biscuit dough on top. Bake in hot oven about 20 minutes.

Here's how to make a savory meat pie:

Meat Pie.
Cut a slice of salt pork into small pieces and brown in skillet with a little added fat. Cut 1½ pounds of meat cut in inch-square pieces. Season with salt and pepper, dip in flour and brown gently in skillet with pork. Cover with 3 cups boiling water. Add 2 chopped onions, 4 sliced carrots, 2 diced potatoes, 1 cup shredded green beans, and a little chopped celery and parsley. Simmer until meat and vegetables are tender, add slightly more water if needed. Do not overcook. When tender thicken with a little flour or cornstarch, place in casserole and cover with 1-cup dough. Place in hot oven until biscuit is baked. Meals suitable for pies are beef: neck, flank, top and bottom round. Veal: neck, shoulder, breast, and flank. Lamb: neck, shoulder, breast, shin and flank.

Tamale Pie.
Sauté in skillet 1 chopped onion and 1-3 cup chopped celery. Add about 1½ pounds ground beef and brown slightly. Add 1 cup uncooked tomatoes and ½ cup water. Season with salt and pepper and a dash of sugar. Flavor with 2 to 3 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and a pinch of chili powder. Simmer to 20 minutes.

Perhaps you might like a variation of meat pie called tamale pie and here's how it is made:

Have four or 5 cups water boiling furiously, salt it and gradually stir in 1½ cups corn meal. Stir constantly until mush is thick. Butter baking dish and line bottom with half of the corn meal mush. Pour in meat mixture and cover with the remaining mush. Brush with melted butter and bake in moderate oven about 45 minutes.

Threlkeld Is Exonerated In Wild Auto Ride Killing

Coroner's Jury Finds 'Justifiable Homicide' in Bizarre Death.

A verdict of justifiable homicide, rendered yesterday afternoon by a DeKalb county coroner's jury, exonerated Francis M. Threlkeld, Atlanta candy salesman, for slaying Wednesday night an alleged hold-up man, John Andrews Anglin, of a Gibson street address.

The jury reached its decision quickly after it had spent several hours listening to Threlkeld and a dozen witnesses describe a bizarre automobile ride through the north side with Anglin constantly threatening the life of the 43-year-old salesman known widely as the "Candy Man."

Threlkeld related to the jury how he had picked up Anglin, who had asked for "a ride to Buckhead." Anglin, it was said, took the salesman's gun from the car's glove compartment and threatened his life in two stores where Threlkeld stopped to take orders for candy.

Witnesses said Anglin had been drinking and often "acted like a crazy man." They corroborated Threlkeld's statement. Miss Edda Knight, an employee of one of the stores, declared:

"Anglin told me something terrible was going to happen and warned me against telling anybody I had seen him."

She, too, heard the numerous threats, she said.

Anglin forced Threlkeld to the back seat of the car and then drove him to a secluded road off Osborn road. There Anglin dropped the pistol which was recovered by Threlkeld. The salesman shot Anglin three times and gave himself up at the Log Cabin on Peachtree road.

East Point yesterday completed arrangements for its annual Democratic primary elections scheduled for Tuesday when councilmen from three wards will be nominated.

Competition will occur only in the first ward, where the incumbent, E. A. Sims, will seek re-nomination over Richard McDonald.

Councilman J. P. Eidson, of the second ward, and J. H. Blair, of the third ward, will enter the primary unopposed. General elections will be held the first Tuesday in December.

SENATOR HARRISON BACK IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(P)—Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, recuperating from a recent illness, was back at his Washington home today with his family.

SUNDAY DINNER MENU.
Fresh Melon and Fruit Cup
Chicken Pie
Buttered String Beans
Baked Bananas
Chopped Greens Salad with Pickles
Chocolate Mint Ice Cream Cake
Tea or Coffee

Greens of many kinds, apples, grapes, string beans and avocados are among the many fresh items which are plentiful and cheap this week end. Use them to advantage in planning your week's menus. The small white seedless grapes are so abundant that one market man said, "Too cheap!" Then why not make some spiced grapes which will be delightful to serve with meats all through the winter. Here's how:

Spiced Grapes.
4 cups sugar
1 pint cider vinegar
4 quarts grapes
1-2 teaspoon each of ground cinnamon, allspice and cloves
Boil the sugar, vinegar and spices five minutes; add fruit which has been picked, washed and drained. Boil 15 minutes. Fill sterilized jars to overflowing and seal.

Sunday night supper will be less of a problem if on Saturday you will make these:

Bran Drop Cookies.
1-3 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1-2 cup cold mashed potatoes
1-3 cup sour milk
3-4 cup bran
1 cup flour
1-4 teaspoon soda
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 cup chopped nut meats
1-2 cup chopped dates
Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat until creamy. Add potatoes; mix well. Add sour milk and bran and let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with soda, salt, baking powder and cinnamon; add to first mixture with nut meats and dates, stirring well. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes.

We're getting into the season when spaghetti dinners and suppers are an important part of our entertainment plan. It is comforting to know that some excellent ready-prepared sauces are available, making those long hours of seasoning and simmering unnecessary. One spaghetti sauce which I have tried is so good, to serve it over your spaghetti will immediately place you in the professional spaghetti-making class. It actually contains sliced mushrooms, but it does not contain meat. However, I have used it, adding some slightly browned, ground steak with perfect success. (Trade name on request.)

COUNTY WORKERS' UNION HEAD DEFIES GRAND JURY QUIZ

Murrell Says He Won't Answer Questionnaire on Workers' Cars, Loans and Insurance Policies.

Resentment against the grand jury's questionnaire about their ownership of cars, lands, insurance and money borrowed from the Bank of Fulton county or the Northwest Atlanta Bank, was expressed yesterday by scores of county employees.

Kenneth Murrell, president of the union of county employees, declared he would not fill in the questionnaire and would refuse to give the information requested.

"County employees are citizens of Fulton county just as much as any resident of the county," Murrell asserted. "When I receive my salary it's mine because I've earned it and it's nobody's business what I do with it."

Murrell said that he had told

J. W. Setze Jr., acting foreman of the jury, that he would not return the questionnaire.

All through the building yesterday county workers were discussing the surprise move of the grand jury in sending every county employee a questionnaire to find out if they owe either of the two banks mentioned, from whom they bought their cars, insurance and land and when.

Many said they did not plan to answer the questions, but Ed Almand, chairman of the county commission, said he was advising all who asked him about it to give the information to the jury.

"I bought my automobile from Al Ragsdale and I bought some fertilizer from Troy Chastain," said Murrell. "I bought from them because they are my friends. I certainly am not going to deal with my enemies."

Purpose in Doubt

Ragsdale is owner of an automobile agency in East Point and Chastain is president of the Atlanta Chemical Company and the Northwest Atlanta bank.

Almand said yesterday that he didn't know what the grand jury is expecting from its questionnaire but he asserted he had not solicited insurance business from county employees.

"It's like this," he said. "The other day one of the employees told me that his fire insurance policy will run out soon and he said he wanted me to write him a policy when its does. Now, wouldn't you take that business?"

He said a number of employees had asked him to write their insurance and that he had done so, just as he had done before he became a member of the county commission in 1934.

Chastain said that he is president of the Northwest Atlanta Bank but that he owns only ten shares and that the dividends from this source are very small. He said the questionnaire could have no connection with the bank and added that it simply performs a community service.

Commissioner Glover Halley declared he is not in any business which could be connected with the questionnaire and said he owned no land except two lots. The questionnaire does not concern him, he asserted.

Dr. Charles R. Adams declared he has no business other than his profession and that the questionnaire did not affect anything with which he is connected.

Presenting 4-H Clubs' Champion Baker and Stylist

SCHOOL DAY AT FAIR TO DRAW BIG CROWD

and Miss Audrey Newton, of Bryan county. The remaining "blue ribbon" winners are Misses Rhea Elaine Byrd, of Coffee county, Rose Mary Wynn, of Wheeler county and Hazel Mote, of Cobb county.

In the state bread-baking contest Miss Mary Elizabeth Edwards, 17, of Willie, Ga., Liberty county, and a student at Abraham Baldwin College, won the top honors. This was the third year she had entered the contest and once before had won second place. Contestants were required to cook loaf bread, cinnamon rolls and plain rolls.

Other "blue ribbon" winners in the bread-baking contest were Misses Mary Christian, of Paulding county; Clara Nell Lavender, of Jackson county; Evelyn Lewis, of Dougherty county, and Mary Roberts, of Chatham county.

Gross attendance for the first five days, according to official figures, was 376,000. The largest attendance for the week was on Monday when 109,000 crowded through the turnstiles. Daily attendance on other days was Sunday, 40,000; Tuesday, 73,500; Wednesday, 85,100, and Thursday, 68,400.

Today, however, will be the biggest day of the 1939 program with between 125,000 and 150,000 school children, their teachers and parents expected to pass through the turnstiles. Students will be admitted for half-price until 6 o'clock tonight.

Crowds Grow Larger.

Increasingly larger crowds are attending the exhibits, with much interest in evidence in the educational displays. The finger-printing booth, sponsored by the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has drawn a surprisingly large number of interested visitors who have had their fingerprints filed for identification.

The largest motorcade thus far arrived in the afternoon from Troup, Meriwether, Harris and Coweta counties. Other groups which came during the day included representatives from Elbert, Clark and Walton counties.

This year, for the first time, the midway attractions have been approved by a board of censors made up of representatives of the city and county schools, the local P.-T. A. organizations, the Atlanta Ministerial Association and an organization of local church women.

Spelling Contest Today.

One of the most popular features of school day will be the annual state-wide spelling contest, conducted by Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools.

Two 4-H club contests are also on the program for the day. At 10:30 o'clock there will be a marketing demonstration and contest held in the Agriculture building. At 3 o'clock selection of winners in the club's egg marketing contest will take place in the National Poultry building.

Prize-Winning Recipes For This Week

Dates in Cheese Pastry
Submitted by Miss Mary Will Warren, Mary Lyndon Hall, Athens, Ga.

1-4 cup butter or margarine
1 13-oz. package cream cheese
1 cup flour
1 egg white
1 package pitted dates
1-2 cup sugar
1-2 cup English walnuts or pecans, chopped fine.

Cream butter or margarine and cheese. Add flour and knead until mixture is like pie crust dough. Wrap in waxed paper and chill thoroughly in refrigerator. Roll out thin on a lightly floured board and cut into squares large enough to wrap around each date. Dip pastry-covered dates in unbeaten egg whites and roll in mixture of chopped nuts and sugar. Bake on an ungreased baking sheet in a moderate oven for 15 or 20 minutes. Makes about 15.

Never Fail Caramel Cake
Submitted by Mrs. H. E. Kemp, Powder Springs, Ga., Route 1

Batter: 1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sweet milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar and add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Then add flour, alternately with milk. Last, add baking powder which has been dissolved in a little of the milk. Add vanilla. Bake in layers, and when cool put together with caramel filling.

Caramel Filling:
1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
1 cup cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Brown sugar and cream with butter. Add cream and cook in saucepan until thick. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Cover tops and sides of layer cake.

Creole Peppers
Submitted by Mrs. Milo M. Curl, 630 Peachtree St., N. E., Atlanta

12 large green peppers
1 cup finely chopped onions
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
2 pounds ground pork
1 1/2 cups bread crumbs
2 cups whole grain rice

Cut tops off peppers and keep tops so they will fit the peppers. Season pork with salt, cayenne pepper and sage and add the bread crumbs and onions. A little garlic may be added to the onion. Put tomatoes in a flat saucepan which will hold the pepper, too. Season tomatoes to taste and add 1-4 cup bacon drippings. Fill peppers with meat mixture and place top on each, secured with toothpicks. Place peppers in tomatoes, bring to a boil, lower flame and simmer slowly about an hour.

Serve on a platter surrounded by mounds of hot, boiled rice with the thick tomato sauce around the rice. Serve piping hot.

RIVERS USES GRID BAIT IN OBTAINING PARLEY ON RATES

11 of 13 Governors Accept
When Session Is Timed
With Tech-Vandy Game;
To Meet October 20-21.

For nearly a year as chairman of the Southeastern Governors' Conference, Governor Rivers has been seeking to draw his fellow chief executives into one big meeting where they could thrash out a number of admitted differences among themselves over freight rates and then present a united front before the Interstate Commerce Commission for a war on the carriers.

Every time he called a general meeting two or three governors showed up. The others sent representatives, but the representatives all said they didn't have power to act for their states. They took home notes, promised to let the conference hear from them, but seldom did.

Last month Governor Rivers attacked at a new angle. He set up a series of regional conferences, hoping to draw the governors into several centrally located cities. Even then he succeeded in getting only one chief executive, Governor Prentice Cooper, of Tennessee, to leave his capital. Governor Cooper came to the Memphis meeting, arrived late and left early.

This week Governor Rivers tried again. He called a conference for October 20 and 21. During the course of his letter of invitation he suddenly discovered that on the afternoon of October 21 Georgia Tech's football team plays one of its ancient rivals, the Commodores of Vanderbilt.

The Governor added a postscript inviting the visiting brethren to be full that Governors A. B. (Happy) Chandler, of Kentucky, and James H. Price, of Virginia, would come. His guests at the football game, which will start just one hour after the rate parley is scheduled to conclude.

Up to last night Governor Rivers had received prompt acceptance from all but two governors in the 13 states comprising the conference and he was still hopeful that Governors A. B. (Happy) Chandler, of Kentucky, and James H. Price, of Virginia, would come.

GEORGIA OYSTERS DECLARED PERFECT

Dr. Long, Chief Inspector,
Urges Support of State's New Industry.

The Georgia oyster is the perfect food, Dr. E. P. Long, chief food inspector of the department of agriculture, declared yesterday in urging Georgians to support the newly-developing oyster industry in this state.

"Oysters contain vitamins, proteins and minerals and when you eat an oyster you get calcium, iron, manganese, copper, iodine, and other elements vital to the human body," Dr. Long said.

"Georgia oysters are as fine as any in the nation. This department has two inspectors, one stationed at Brunswick and one at Savannah, to see that shucking houses are kept sanitary, to see that oysters are handled in a sanitary manner, and to prevent bootlegging of oysters from polluted areas."

Dr. Long said the Georgia oyster industry is growing again after a severe lapse and that large numbers of Georgians are employed in the industry along the Georgia coast.

"Much progress has been made in the past three years in improving the Georgia oysters and they are now the best in the nation."

DELEGATES BEGIN THREE-DAY PARLEY ON TOBACCO TAX

Sam Kimberlin, Chairman of National Conference, Arrives; Collections of Levy Is Chief Problem.

Sam Kimberlin, director of the occupational and cigarette tax division of Texas, and chairman of the National Tobacco Tax Conference, arrived in Atlanta yesterday, as delegates to the conference's thirteenth annual meeting began a technical, three-day discussion of tax administration problems.

Today's program lists welcoming speeches by Mayor Hartford, and T. Grady Head, Georgia revenue commissioner and vice-chairman of the conference. Invocation will be delivered by the Rev. Harold Shields.

Reeves to Speak.
Also scheduled for today is an address by H. Clyde Reeves, Kentucky revenue commissioner, and a paper prepared by Henry Long, tax commissioner of Massachusetts, a state whose cigarette tax went into effect last September 1. Long himself is unable to attend the meeting.

Yesterday's sessions were informal, and devoted to round-table discussion of tax problems of each state represented.

Collections Chief Problem.
Chief problem to be tackled by the delegates is the collection of the $10,000,000 dollars lost annually by states that tax cigarettes through untaxed interstate shipments. Georgia's losses, between three and four hundred thousand a year, have been cut considerably since the state supreme court ruled the revenue department may collect taxes on cigarettes shipped in from other states.

DIXIE TRADE FIGHT ON DAIRY BELT SEEN

Georgia Ban on Wisconsin Products Interpreted as First Retaliation.

Possibilities of an economic war between the cotton belt of the south and northern dairying areas developed yesterday as the result of the Georgia Welfare Department's ban on Wisconsin dairy products being shipped here for use by the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation.

In Memphis the National Cotton Council interpreted the ban as the first of "a probable series of retaliatory measures by the cotton belt against the dairying states."

Erasmus Deen, director of the welfare department, Wednesday issued an order stopping the shipment of "any and all" Wisconsin dairy products into Georgia for use in the Federal Surplus Commodity program because he said that state's oleomargarine tax was discriminating against the south.

A cotton council spokesman at Memphis said headquarters there had nothing to do with initiating the Deen order but added: "We have units in Georgia and they may have."

R. W. Philip, editor of Cotton, said last night he had no comment on Deen's action and declared he knew of no member of the cotton council in Atlanta.

It was recalled that last month Oscar Johnston, president of the council, predicted cotton states would soon start retaliating against erecting trade barriers against cotton products.

HOME ECONOMICS PROBLEMS AIRED

Pros and Cons of Course in State Educational Program Outlined at Parley.

The pros and cons of home economics education were outlined yesterday in a panel discussion featuring a two-day conference of home economics in the state vocational program.

Led by Miss Elizabeth Mayes, state supervisor, problems, advantages and disadvantages of the courses were considered in talks by Mrs. Ed Bryan of the Columbus city schools; Paul Monroe, superintendent of the Columbus schools; Miss Lena MacCoff, home economics teacher in Hogshead; Miss Polly Wansley of Mansfield; Miss Em Ellen Spooner of Fayetteville; Miss Frances Champion, assistant superintendent in the northwest district of Georgia; and John I. Allman of the state department of education.

It was pointed out by the speakers that among disadvantages of the home economics program was the fact that many schools objected to requirements that certain time be given entirely to this subject.

Courses have advantage points, however, in that all schools which offer the course are required to have adequate equipment for the teachings and demonstrations. It also was pointed out that the fact that some teachers in the course are paid slightly more than regular high school teachers is hardly enough to compensate their extra work in carrying out their duty.

Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, was principal speaker at the recreation program last night.

M. D. Mobley, state director of vocational education, will be principal speaker this morning at the meeting starting at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Todd will be conference study leader and after luncheon the discussion groups will be featured on the program.

U. S. AIR BASE ON GULF WILL BE DEVELOPED

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 5.—(P)—The southeast army air base at Tampa and all other defense units along the Gulf of Mexico will be developed to a high degree to protect the nation and the Panama canal, Congressman J. Buell Snyder, Democrat, Pennsylvania, chairman of the house subcommittee on military appropriations, said here today.

Snyder, accompanied by Congressman Joe Starnes, Democrat, Alabama, a member of the subcommittee, and Major Arthur Wilson, army air corps, flew here today from Washington, as a part of the 12,000-mile trip of inspection of proposed and existing air bases.

MARKS 81ST BIRTHDAY.
AMERICUS, Ga., Oct. 5.—Colonel J. E. D. Shipp, prominent in political and educational affairs in this section of the state and former member of the state board of regents, celebrated his 81st birthday at his home here yesterday. He is recuperating from a long illness.

Help Make Good Housewives Out of Girls

Here are some of the home economics teachers who are responsible for making good housewives out of Georgia's young womanhood. They held a convention in Atlanta yesterday and there was a lot of gossip about cooking and sewing. Left to right, front, are Miss Elizabeth Mayes, state supervisor of home economics, and Miss Blanche Hamby, instructor of economics at Fairburn. Back row, left to right, are Miss Frances Champion, assistant supervisor; Miss Jessie McVey, head of the home economics department at G. S. C. W., and Miss Elizabeth Todd, head of the training division at the University of Georgia.

RUSSIA AND LATVIA SIGN AGREEMENT

Kremlin by Molotov and Latvian Foreign Minister William Munters in the presence of Stalin.

Six Articles.
It contained six articles, which in effect provide:

1. Each party is to extend military aid to the other in case of aggression.

2. Russia is to furnish Latvia munitions at low prices.

3. The setting aside on lease terms of the two ports for Soviet naval bases, and sites for several airbases; the provision for a "limited" number of Soviet troops in Latvia; granting to the Soviet of the right to a coast artillery base between Ventspils and Pitsraga.

4. Neither party is to conclude any treaty directed against the other.

5. Each will observe strictly the sovereignty and social system of the other; the new Soviet naval bases will remain Latvian territory.

6. The pact is to extend for 10 years, ratification to take place in Riga, Latvian capital, within six days.

Coast Artillery.
The coast artillery battery will be located near the northern tip of the peninsula that forms the Gulf of Riga, Latvia's greatest harbor.

Russia and Germany, it was announced today, welded their new "frontier friendship agreement" by an additional protocol fixing a precise frontier between them in conquered and partitioned Poland. The protocol, signed yesterday by Molotov and German Ambassador Count Friedrich Werner von Der Schulenberg, provided that a mixed commission begin work October 9 placing frontier stones along the boundary of the Nazi and Communist "spheres of interest" in Poland.

P-T. A. TO SPONSOR HORSE RACE MEET

Talmadge Will Speak at Glenwood Program.

GLENWOOD, Ga., Oct. 5.—The Glenwood P-T. A. will sponsor a horse race program at the Horseshoe Bend Farm at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, October 13.

Among speakers at an accompanying program will be Ex-Governor Talmadge, introduced by G. C. Barnhill, of Glenwood. The welcome address will be given by Mrs. W. H. Kent, president of the local P-T. A., and Colonel N. G. Reeves Jr., of Soperton, will respond.

Among the race entries will be trotters, harness horses, racers and pacers from Eastman, Reidsville, Glenville, Claxton and Alamo. Added attractions will be a show of ponies raised on the Horseshoe Bend Farm and a negro flat-foot race.

CONTRACTS ARE ASKED BY ELBERT TEACHERS

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ELBERTON, Ga., Oct. 5.—The Elbert County Teachers' Association approved resolutions calling on the state to "enter into contracts with all teachers, definitely setting forth length of term and salary per month," and urging payment of teachers' salaries on the same date as other state employees.

Prince A. Hodgson, president of the association, said the resolutions disclosed a state debt of $22,670 to Elbert county for 1938-39 teachers' salaries.

The resolutions recommended that "if the teachers have to go unpaid, let all state employees do likewise."

Europe. The mission, headed by General Kiazim Orbay, was entertained at lunch with Lord Chatfield, minister for coordination of defense, presiding.

Other British officials worked to perfect financial and economic machinery for prosecution of the war.

Food Minister W. S. Morrison met with a Danish trade delegation in line with Britain's attempt to keep the flow of dairy and meat products into this island kingdom uninterrupted.

The house of commons threshed out details of the huge emergency war budget with Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer. Sir John assured the house he would guard against "lavish expenditures."

Chamberlain took up the war production program with heads of Britain's 6,000,000 trade unionists in a conference at which the government urged the full co-operation of organized labor. Union heads asked in return pledges against relaxing wage and hour standards in the armaments speed-up.

Back in Berlin political circles expressed a belief Fuehrer Hitler would last on against Britain's arming of commercial ships in the sea warfare.

Naval authorities said Germany's counter measures would be decided upon in the very near future.

British Fix Food Prices.
In a drive to prevent profiteering, the British government listed maximum retail food prices.

The list included sugar at four pence halfpenny (about 8 cents) a pound; butter, 1 shilling 7 (about 34 cents) a pound; and imported lard, sixpence (about 11 cents) a pound.

The maximum price of home-produced large eggs was set 2/6 (about 14 cents) a dozen, and dried fruits ranging up to 1/3 (27 cents) a pound. Meats, tea, margarine and other staples are to be included in a subsequent price list.

The British government announced the 240,000 men in the 21-to-22-age group who are being called under the conscription act to swell the total of those conscripted to 500,000 would be required to register October 21.

'UP TO DEMOCRACIES,' RIBBENTROP SAYS

BERLIN, Oct. 6. (Friday)—(P)—The western democracies must decide soon whether it is to be peace or war, and the choice is up to them. Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop said today in an interview with a correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi.

Publication of the interview by the German news agency, DNB, was regarded as a hint in some quarters of what may be the tenor of Adolf Hitler's address to the reichstag today.

"Germany always wanted peace," Von Ribbentrop said, "the war with Poland was forced on the reich by a government which refused to accept the Fuehrer's just compromise. Toward the west the reich entertains peaceful intentions but nevertheless the western powers will have to decide soon whether to make serious war or not and the choice is up to them."

RAMSPECK URGES NEW AIR LINE HERE

Asks CAA for Approval of Amarillo-Atlanta Application.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—In an effort to get all the air service possible for Atlanta, Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Decatur, today appeared before an examiner of the Civil Aeronautics Authority to urge the granting of an application to either the Braniff Airways or the Trans-Southern Air Lines for new and additional service between Amarillo, Texas, and Atlanta.

Both of these companies have on file with the CAA applications to extend their service between the Texas and Georgia points. Mr. Ramspeck took no sides as between the two competing companies.

In its application, the Braniff Airways expressed a desire to make stops only at Oklahoma City and Memphis in their servicing of Amarillo and Atlanta, while the Trans-Southern Air Lines made it known that they would make many smaller stops, such as Gadsden, Ala.

The examiner will file a report with the authority before a final decision is reached.

TWO SWEDISH LINERS SHIFTED TO U.S. WATERS

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 5.—(P)—A Stockholm dispatch today said the Swedish American Line was transferring the liners Gripsholm and Kungsholm from trans-Atlantic service to coastwise and tourist service in American waters.

The newspaper said the liner Drottningholm would continue to ply between New York and Gothenburg.

FIREMEN GUESS RIGHT AS TWO SIGNALS RING

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DUBLIN, Ga., Oct. 5.—The big bell on top of the firehouse tolled for Box 3-2, but the little bell inside kept right on ringing until it reached 3-9.

Firemen took a quick guess and dashed to the location of the latter box in time to save the home of J. C. Leverette. It was a lucky guess, because the other box is located several blocks away.

TOBACCO CROP CURB APPROVED BY VOTE

Incomplete Returns Indicate 90 Per Cent in Favor of Program.

Flue-cured tobacco growers voted more than 10 to 1, on the basis of incomplete returns to night, in favor of federal control of their production in 1940.

Five of six states in the flue-cured tobacco belt piled up a vote of 82,001 in favor of control; 5,199 against, or 82.2 per cent.

Early returns by states:

	Yes	No
Georgia	14,861	2,401
Florida	14,321	1,300
North Carolina	14,321	1,300
South Carolina	14,321	1,300
Virginia	14,321	1,300

Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials said the voting was much lighter than had been expected. In Georgia, only slightly more than 50 per cent of the eligible farmers voted.

Under the law establishing federal control, at least two-thirds of the farmers voting throughout the belt must approve the program before it may be enforced. Unofficial estimates indicated about 300,000 farmers were eligible to vote.

H. D. POLLARD FETED ON 67TH BIRTHDAY

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 5.—(P)—H. D. Pollard, receiver for the Central of Georgia railway, was feted on the occasion of his 67th birthday here last night at a dinner given by the employees of the railroad. About 500 attended.

For a birthday gift, the Central of Georgia Employees' Club turned its thoughts to Pollard's "first love"—Bethesda Home for Boys—and presented him a $385 check for that institution.

FOOTBALL 'GATE' PAYS FOR MOST OF TECH SPORTS

Gridiron Receipts During Year Totaled $238,442; Basketball, Track Only Others With Net Profit.

Football, basketball and track were the only paying sports at Georgia Tech during the fiscal year ended June 30, State Auditor Zack Arnold reported to Governor Rivers yesterday after completing his analysis of the books of Tech's Athletic Association.

Football receipts during the year totalled $238,442, while the school paid guarantees of $75,784, the audit showed. In addition $18,107 was paid to the federal government in taxes, leaving a net profit from the sport of $147,552 after minor items totaling $1,002 were added to the income.

Baseball showed a net loss of $367 while fencing, golf, swimming and tennis also showed small losses. The sport of fencing cost the school $13.19 during the year.

Adding up profits and losses in all sports and deducting expenses for all, the audit showed the Athletic Association had a net income of $18,357 for the year.

Arnold showed that the expenditures included $57,446 for salaries to coaches and other employees and $26,800 for other expenses. Coach W. A. Alexander drew the largest salary, $7,200 for the year, while Assistant Coach Bobby Dodd drew $4,200.

The state auditor criticized a donation of $500 to the Atlanta Community Chest which he held was unconstitutional.

GEORGIANS RANK THIRD IN MARINE ENLISTMENT

Native-born Georgians hold third place in enlistments in the United States Marine Corps for 1939 as compared with other states according to a compilation made by the Atlanta sub-district recruiting station, statistics showing that 314 residents of Georgia have enlisted so far this year. Pennsylvania was first with 495 enlistments of "native-born sons," while Texas ranked second with 341 enlistments.

22 Per Cent More Glass Area in New Lincoln-Zephyr

The 1940 Lincoln-Zephyr club coupe (above) is a new body type this year. It accommodates six passengers. Sports equipment or luggage can be stored in the large rear-deck compartment. The 1940 Lincoln-Zephyr has 22 per cent more glass area than previous models. New models are on display in Atlanta showrooms.

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR JOINS 1940 PARADE

Structure of New Car Completely Redesigned and Improved.

A larger, more powerful and more smartly styled Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 is in the parade of new 1940 automobiles and may be seen in the showrooms of Atlanta dealers.

The fundamental characteristic of Zephyr construction—the unit-body-and-frame—is retained. The structure, however, has been completely redesigned and improved. Interiors are more roomy and seats are wider than formerly. The new finger-tip gearshift is included in the list of improvements.

More Engine Power.

The 1940 Lincoln-Zephyr has 22 per cent more glass area than previous models. The windows are wider and deeper, with the rear window of one-piece tempered glass curved to the body lines. Engine power has been increased without sacrificing economy. There is a new controlled ventilation system in addition to sealed-beam headlamps.

The frontal appearance is changed by a lower hood, which extends forward, and a new grille and ornament. Interiors are completely restyled. A new instrument panel has dials and gauges grouped in front of the driver with a glove compartment to the right. Seats are chair-height, deeply cushioned with soft edges for comfort. The floor is low and passengers step directly into the car. Running boards have been eliminated and floors extend all the way to the doors.

New Body Types.

Two new body types are added this year—a club coupe and a continental cabriolet, in addition to the sedan with four doors, town limousine, coupe and six-passenger convertible coupe. Tops which operate automatically are supplied in the convertible coupe and continental cabriolet.

Broadcloth or cord upholstery is offered in the closed cars, leather in a choice of five colors or a combination of leather and whipcord in the convertibles.

The hood of the continental cabriolet is seven inches longer and three inches lower than in the other Lincoln-Zephyr body types for 1940. Front and rear seats each accommodate three persons.

MAY FORM STUDENT CITIZENSHIP GROUP

Delegates Will Discuss Possibility of Organizing National Fraternity.

Representatives of Atlanta colleges will discuss the possibility of organizing a national citizenship fraternity at a meeting Thursday night in the Emory university cafeteria.

Coming as an outgrowth of Georgia's Citizenship Day observance October 12, the suggestion for a fraternity which would sponsor upright election practices and better citizenship came from Peter G. Cranford, director of research for the better education movement.

At the Thursday meeting delegates from Georgia Tech, Agnes Scott, Oglethorpe, Emory and the Georgia Evening college will discuss also final plans for their participation in the Citizenship Day program at Ponce de Leon park.

Individual programs at each campus will be climaxed October 12 at the park, when Captain Eddie V. Rickenbacker makes the principal address.

FACT-FINDING GROUP WILL MEET TONIGHT

Co-ordinating Committee To Discuss Natural Resources of Georgia.

A group of Georgians, whose fresh method of attacking old problems has brought them national-wide attention, will gather at dinner at 6 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel to discuss the natural resources of the state.

They are members of the co-ordinating committee of the Georgia Fact Finding Movement—heads of 17 state-wide organizations coming together voluntarily to find how they can make Georgia a better state. With them are a group of authorities on principal aspects of the state's resources and organization.

Dr. W. Harry Vaughan, director of the state engineering experiment station, Georgia School of Technology, will discuss possible solutions to the problems of conservation and use of Georgia's natural wealth. It is the first fall meeting of the group which has earned national attention to its work in arousing Georgians to do something about Georgia.

Mrs. James S. Gordy, president of the Georgia Conference on Parents and Teachers, who was chairman for September, will open the meeting and turn it over to the October chairman, J. Roy McGinty, president of the Georgia Press Association. Dr. Vaughan's presentation will be followed by general discussion.

Paralyzed Woman Quits Iron Lung To Bear Baby

CHICAGO, Oct. 5. — (AP) — A young wife, suffering from infantile paralysis, was removed from a life-preserving "iron lung" today long enough to give birth to a baby.

Both the mother, Mrs. Gertrude Epstein, 22, and the infant girl, who weighed approximately 6 1-2 pounds, survived the unusual ordeal.

Dr. A. I. Doktorsky, head resident of Mount Sinai hospital and one of the six physicians who participated in the case, gave these details of the life-or-death drama:

Mrs. Epstein was brought to the hospital Tuesday. She exhibited symptoms of infantile paralysis. She was moved to a special room and, when she complained of difficult breathing, she was placed in a huge, boiler-like respirator. As her confinement approached this morning, the physicians called upon the family of Fred Snite Jr. for special equipment. Snite, world famed paralysis victim who has lived in "iron lungs" for more than three and a half years, sent a small respirator which covers the torso, a resuscitator and a technician.

Mrs. Epstein was removed from the big "iron lung" at 8:45 a. m. Because the small respirator did not fit, the patient's breathing was maintained during the delivery by the manual manipulation of a rescue squad from the fire department and by the resuscitator, a device which provides forcible inhalation and exhalation through a tube and cup which covers the mouth and nose.

The child was born at 9:45 a. m. The mother was returned to the full-length "iron lung" at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Epstein's condition was reported "poor" this afternoon, but the youngster was in "fairly good" condition.

There was no record of the use of a respirator in a maternity case.

NEW FORD FEATURES SAFETY, COMFORT

Stylish 1940 Models, Now On Display, Offer Two Engines, Finger-Tip Gear.

Improvements in styling, comfort, convenience and safety are distinctive in the new Ford V-8 cars for 1940, now on display in Atlanta showrooms.

The new cars are big and powerful in appearance, with body lines gracefully streamlined. They also have modern front designs, long hoods and deeply rounded fenders. Interiors are roomy.

Two V-8 engines are available—an 85-horsepower engine in the Ford V-8 and the de luxe Ford V-8, with a 60-horsepower engine optional in the Ford V-8.

An important feature of the new cars is a finger-tip gearshift mounted on the steering column under the two-spoke steering wheel. The 1940 model has a new controlled ventilation system and new sealed-beam headlamps.

Four Ford V-8 and five de luxe body types comprise the two lines. A new business coupe as well as a Fordor sedan, Tudor sedan and coupe are available in both. There is also a de luxe convertible club coupe with automatic top as standard equipment. Three color choices are offered in the Ford V-8 and six in the de luxe line.

On the 85-horsepower cars an improved spring suspension with a longer, more flexible front spring and a torsion bar ride-stabilizer provide extra riding comfort. Front and rear springs of de luxe cars are equipped with metal covers. Large double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers with self-sealing construction are fitted on all cars.

Front seat backs are of new resilient type. Cushions have a new "floating" edge. Driver's seats are adjustable two ways—they rise as they are moved forward. Bodies are scientifically sound-proofed, shutting out road noises. An "easy-shift" transmission permits quiet changing of speeds.

The interiors of the cars appear in new decorative schemes.

BOYKIN ATTACKS COUNCIL REFUSAL TO ACT ON 'BUG'

Approves White Demand That Grand Jury Probe Charge Ex-Operator 'Influenced' Councilmen.

Failure of city council to pass a proposed anti-lottery ordinance to put double teeth into police efforts to stamp out the lottery racket in Atlanta was described as "calamitous" yesterday by Solicitor General John A. Boykin in a letter to Councilman John A. White.

Boykin also informed White he would present to the Fulton county grand jury White's request that the grand jury investigate charges by Mayor Hartsfield that council was "influenced" in its vote on that ordinance, and on failure to revoke liquor, beer and wine permits, because an ex-lottery operator "paraded up and down before the council railing."

Police committee members had recommended the city could confiscate automobiles used in lottery activities for a period of 10 days while it checked the registration of the machine; could place a lien against the car for any fines imposed against operators, and could arrest any person on whom lottery tickets were found, even if they were playing the lottery only and were not operators.

When council turned down the lottery ordinance and failed to revoke the licenses, as recommended by the police committee, the mayor attacked then as "not backing up the police department."

Resenting Hartsfield's statement about the former lottery operator being in council, White asserted council had been attacked and insisted that the grand jury conduct a sweeping investigation of the entire matter. He addressed a letter to Boykin making the request.

Boykin said in replying to White's letter that it was "calamitous" that council declined to arm the police with additional authority. He pointed out that the state has not yet legislated against players of the lottery and that it is well within the province of council to pass ordinances controlling players as well as operators of the racket.

Under the ordinance, a machine might outdistance officers in a chase, but if discovered in repose at a latter date could be impounded and held, Boykin pointed out. He asserted that most of the automobiles used in "bug" racketeering are registered fictitiously and that title is hard to establish.

Boykin stressed a provision of the ordinance which enabled the city to proceed against those who play the lottery, asserting there is no law at the present time under which officers can arrest players. Warning that Atlanta could become a racket center which would cost its citizens millions of dollars, Boykin said any government which fails to protect the lives and properties of its citizens has no reason to exist. He pointed out that he personally drew a bill for legislative action making it an offense to purchase lottery tickets, but that the bill was lost in the jam of the legislative session.

RACE DRIVER SAYS HE'LL FLEE PRISON

Roy Hall's Suspended Sentence Revoked.

His suspended sentence revoked, Roy Hall, 20-year-old Atlanta race driver and convicted lottery operator, yesterday in Fulton criminal court asserted he will escape from prison at the earliest opportunity.

Judge John S. McClelland revoked the 12-month suspended sentence Hall was given recently in a speeding case when the youth faced him again in three additional counts charging reckless driving, speeding and operating without a driver's license. Hall denied he was the one involved in the cases and his attorney, George T. Manley, asserted Hall held a temporary driver's permit.

Manley said that Hall really "has no intention of escaping" and that he boasted that he would escape "in the heat of passion."

Charges against Hall for reckless driving and speeding are still pending.

U. S. Navy Recruits Are All
From Atlanta Area.

Eight young Georgians, all from Atlanta or vicinity, who have been accepted for enlistment in the United States navy, yesterday were transferred to the naval training station at Norfolk, the navy recruiting sub-station in the new post office building announced last night.

The men were Robert Henry Downs Jr. and Roy Allen, Atlanta; Vincent Keith Jackson and Leonard B. McMillan, East Point; John Philip Hampton, Stone Mountain; Luther Milton Huggins, Avondale; John Eliza Goss, Hapeville, and Fred Pershing Williams, Suwannee.

FERTILIZER SALES OFF 29,757 TONS

Roberts Reveals Decline After Checking Tags.

Fertilizer tag sales indicated a decrease of 29,757 tons this year as compared with the same period last year, Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts reported yesterday.

Through September the record shows tags for 671,512 tons had been sold by the department as compared with 701,268 tons last year. Total sales for last year were 768,323 tons.

Fighting Lull Permits French To Tighten Grip on Nazi Soil

Communique Reports 'Calm Day'; Lines Near Neutral Luxembourg Bolstered.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—(P)—French troops capitalized on a lull in fighting on the western front today to organize new lines in German border territory.

The high command communique tonight said it was "a generally calm day" with "activity of reconnaissance units of both sides on various parts of the front."

A morning communique gave no indication of action along the 60-mile northern flank, except for sporadic artillery fire, but the French were reported to have strengthened their positions to prevent any possible German drive through the neutral duchy of Luxembourg.

Semi-official military advices said the French took full possession of the strategic Borg forest east of Luxembourg after a short skirmish with German tanks.

Nazi Attacks Dwindle. A series of German local attacks of the past few days apparently faded out last night after attempts to filter into the French western positions in the forest-covered Hardt mountains near the German town of Pirmasens.

While the French awaited tomorrow's session of the Reichstag for a possible public German peace bid, their attention turned to naval developments.

Yesterday's capture of a German merchant vessel by a French submarine was disclosed to have taken place 1,000 miles out in the Atlantic. The submarine was one of France's largest, built in 1931. Although the warcraft was not named, the description was seen as applying only to the Surcouf, world's largest undersea vessel. (The authoritative naval manual, "Jane's Fighting Ships," credits the Surcouf with a 12,000-mile cruising range, speed up to 19 knots, and armaments that include 22 torpedoes, eight guns and her own small seaplane.)

Seize 300,000 Tons Contraband. French said the British fleet had seized almost 300,000 tons of contraband consigned to Germany since the war began and described French seizures as "important," although no figures were given.

This work of the blockading fleet, the French contended, was stimulating a German desire for peace and from it they themselves were hoping in large part for ultimate victory, they said.

France maintained the position tonight, however, that she was not interested in German peace proposals unless Germany and Russia yield the occupied territory of Poland and gave guarantees for a permanent settlement of Europe's problems.

Communist Deputy Arrested. Acting on cabinet authority to clean up remaining elements of the outlawed Communist party, police arrested Florimond Bonte, member of the chamber of deputies and secretary general of the Workers and Farmers party, organized when Communists were banned.

Arthur Ramette, 42-year-old president of the party, eluded them, however, having fled Paris as soon as the dissolution of parliament yesterday removed his immunity as a deputy.

GEORGIANS TO DRILL FOR OIL AT UVALDA

Definite Showing of 'Black Gold' Reported After Core Test.

A group of Georgia businessmen, inspired by the findings of a core test well drilled at Uvalda, Montgomery county, last May, will drill a well for oil at Uvalda in the coastal plain area of Georgia, it was announced yesterday by W. C. Schaper, of Atlanta, who is associated with E. L. and E. O. Meadows, of Vidalia.

On May 23, Captain Garland Peyton, director of geology division of the state department of natural resources, reported a definite showing of oil and gas following a core test drill to 1,090 feet. At the same time, Captain Peyton pointed out that the showing "is of scientific interest mainly, and does not prove the existence or non-existence of oil in Georgia in commercial quantities."

The Georgia group is so interested in the possibilities, a rotary drilling rig is now on location and will be ready to "spud in" within a week or 10 days. A steel derrick is being erected and drilling machinery placed.

Schaper points out that if "we can develop oil in south Georgia, it will be of tremendous economic importance for the state."

E. L. Meadows recently was quoted by the Savannah Morning News to the effect that "the people of Georgia should be greatly interested in the drilling of oil wells in the state because it is quite probable that oil in paying quantities will be found."

Prominent Georgians interested in the oil venture, besides E. L. and E. O. Meadows, are listed by Schaper as C. M. and Reese Jordan, of Glenwood and Lumber City; James Fowler, of Soperton; Herschel V. Jenkins, of the Savannah Morning News; J. B. O'Connor, of Kibbes, and other business leaders of Atlanta and south Georgia.

Alabama Schools TO BORROW $2,000,000. MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 5.—(UP)—The Alabama Public School Corporation prepared today to borrow $2,000,000 to pay salaries of state school teachers.

Constitutionality of a 1939 legislative act creating the school corporation, through which county and city school boards could borrow, was upheld by the state supreme court.

U. S. Industry Is Reported Near '37 Recovery Level

September Production Rate Averages 110 Per Cent of 1923-25 Base Period; Businessmen Warned Not to Expect Too Much From South America.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(P)—The Federal Reserve Board reported today that American industry, stimulated by the war and domestic factors, had increased its production almost to the level attained in the 1937 recovery spurt.

The September production rate averaged 110 per cent of the 1923-25 base period, the board's monthly bulletin estimated. It added that output raced well ahead of 110 in the latter part of September.

This brought the index close to the 118 per cent peak of 1937, the highest point reached since the depression started in 1929.

104 Last Year. Last year's high was 104, reached in December. The year 1939 started out with industry rated at 101. During a dull spring, the index slipped to 92. June brought a rise to 98, July to 101, and August to 102. This pre-war spurt was emphasized by the board.

However, the report added that while "employment and national income increased substantially, as is usual, they expanded less rapidly than industrial activity."

The report summarized business conditions at a time when various governmental agencies were studying the possibility of larger export trade to Latin America and other neutral countries cut off from European supplies.

While most are agreed that some stimulation of trade with South America is certain, Chairman Emory S. Land, of the maritime commission, suggested today that businessmen should not raise their expectations too high.

With reference primarily to the shipping situation, he said that "the idea that we are going to find plenty of opportunity for all of us in South America just doesn't hold water."

"Misinformation." He added that there had been a "lot of misinformation" about trade with South America and that there was a great deal of difference between "cash on the barrel head" and the barter trade in which some South American countries have engaged with Germany.

Much of the expectation of greater trade with South America has been based on the theory that the United States might supply markets held by Germany prior to the war.

Industry's potential power needs, in the light of war-stimulated activity, were discussed during the day by President Roosevelt and

C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of the board of the Electric Bond & Share Company.

Groesbeck told reporters after his White House visit that "the power companies are in much better shape to meet any emergency than at the beginning of the last war."

The reserve board's report noted that the war, in addition to increasing industrial activity, had "resulted in abrupt price changes and sharp increases in activity in the commodity and financial markets of this country."

"Prices of basic commodities advanced in September, reflecting chiefly heavy purchases by manufacturers and distributors, but to some extent also speculative activity by traders," the report said.

Prices Jump. Statistical data in the report showed that the prices of 30 sensitive commodities jumped 20 per cent in the first week of the war.

The rate of this gain alarmed many administrative officials, and the commerce department's business advisory council of 53 prominent business and financial leaders discussed here today voluntary means of carrying out a pledge to act as "lions" between the government and business in checking "unwarranted price increases."

The reserve board attributed the industrial gain largely to increased production of steel, automobiles, textiles, shoes, petroleum, and coal.

The board also reported "demand for business loans at commercial banks has increased sharply in recent weeks."

"A part of this demand represents a seasonal increase, but much of it appears to be for funds to finance the purchase of additional inventories and the expansion of current operations," it said.

E. D. GILBERT INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO. E. D. Gilbert, 47, of 636 Eustis street, was treated at Grady hospital yesterday for minor contusions of the leg and a cut hand received when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile while crossing Love street at Martin.

Jake Chensault, of 112 Glenn street, said by police to be the driver of the car, was booked on charges of improper brakes and accident.

ARMY COURT FINDS BERGDOLL 'GUILTY'

U. S. Draft Dodger Given Additional Three Years for Escaping Custody.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(P)—A United States army court martial which tried Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the World War draft dodger, on charges of desertion and escape from military custody late today sentenced him to three years' imprisonment.

Bergdoll already is serving a five-year sentence for draft evasion; thus his total penalty for refusing to serve the country's armed forces in war-time will be eight years.

The court, composed of 13 high-ranking army officers, deliberated for more than two hours before arriving at the verdict. Specifically they convicted Bergdoll of escape and desertion—a desertion which followed his original conviction of draft dodging—but held that he had not conspired, as the prosecution claimed, with the family chauffeur in his escape.

The former Philadelphia playboy, middle-aged and pudgy now, accepted the verdict stolidly; his wife, Berta, 32, just as stolidly.

He already has served six months of his original five-year term.

NOT TO RUN AGAIN. AMERICUS, Ga., Oct. 5.—S. L. McDaniel, completing his eighth consecutive year as a member of Americus city council, announced today he would not be a candidate to succeed himself in the primary to be held October 23. Phil Jones and Charles Lanier, whose terms expire with the end of the year, have stated they will not seek re-election.

POWERFUL NAVAL SCOUTING FORCE SAILS FOR HAWAII

29 Ships, With 106 Planes,
Go to Pearl Harbor;
Move Seen as Bolster to Pacific Defense Line.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 5.—(P)—The bulk of the powerful, fast-striking scouting force of the United States fleet set out today for a mid-Pacific base.

This will centralize at Pearl Harbor the strongest naval force ever stationed in the Hawaiian islands, other than during annual war games.

Whether this is a temporary shift, in preparation for annual maneuvers next January, or whether it is a reorganization of the United States fleet to establish an effective Alaska-Hawaii-Panama security line was not disclosed.

Ship Operations Secret.
One naval officer pointed out that the fleet is operating under a limited national emergency proclamation by the President, and movements of fighting ships are considered secret.

Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the scouting force, took 29 fighting ships to sea today with 106 planes aboard. He will be one of the fleet commanders in the 1940 war games. His detachment included a flotilla of destroyers and the aircraft carrier Enterprise.

Left behind at San Pedro was scouting force cruiser division four, comprising the heavy cruisers Chicago, Chester, Louisville and Portland. Unconfirmed reports were that this division might go to the Panama Canal zone.

Heavy Cruisers to Follow.
The heavy cruisers Indianapolis and Houston are expected to proceed to Hawaii after scheduled navy yard overhaul.

A sky patrol unit, the carrier Langley and a squadron of giant patrol planes, recently were shifted to the Philippines.

The only official comment at Washington or fleet headquarters was that the movement had been considered for months and is for training purposes.

land on October 2 with a full list of American passengers.

This was the chief tenor of the official note sent to us by the head of the German navy.

As a purely precautionary measure, a coast guard vessel and several navy ships from the patrol will meet the Iroquois at sea and will accompany her to an American port. Furthermore, the captain of the Iroquois has been informed of this official note from the German admiralty and has been asked to make a careful search for any possible explosives on board his ship.

The whole of this information has also been conveyed to the British and French admiralties.

Vote for Going to War Drops Sharply in U. S.; South Most Belligerent

GALLUP POLL

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 5.—In its latest survey the American Institute of Public Opinion finds that only five per cent, or one person in every 20 of those interviewed, thinks the United States should send troops abroad to fight in the European war. Even among the people of Polish, Austrian, English or Canadian extraction the number who want the United States to participate in war is negligible.

Moreover, such sentiment as existed a month ago for joining the conflict has shrunk precipitately since the outbreak of actual war early in September.

The survey asked voters throughout the nation: "Should we declare war and send our army and navy abroad to fight Germany?"

	Month Ago	Today
Yes	16%	5%
No	84%	95%

The Institute plans to measure opinion on this issue at regular intervals in the future in order to keep a running index of war sentiment. Such an index will reveal the effect on American opinion of battles, propaganda and other events as the European war progresses.

At the start of the conflict it is clear that little war fever exists in this country, that 95 people in every 100 want to keep our troops and our navy at home and remain at peace.

At the same time, however, recent Institute studies have found an increase in sentiment for changing the Neutrality Act in order to permit England, France and other countries to buy American war supplies.

The increase came directly after President Roosevelt's speech before congress, September 21, in which he said he regretted having signed the present act with its arms embargo provision. Before his speech, 57 per cent of voters with opinions in an Institute survey wanted the Neutrality Law revised. After the speech, the figure rose to 62 per cent. A new survey is now under way to measure the effect on public opinion of the debate in congress over the issue.

Among geographical sections the southern states were found slightly more in favor of war than other sections, nine per cent of southern voters approving such a step as compared to between four and six per cent for all other sections.

Especially interesting in today's survey is the vote by nationalities. Each individual was asked to give the name of the country in which his father was born. When this data was correlated with the vote on declaring war against Germany, no great variation by nationalities was found. The strongest sentiment for fighting Germany came from individuals whose fathers had been born in Poland, but even their vote was not high—11 per cent.

Among persons whose fathers had been born in other countries the vote in favor of fighting Germany ranged from 3 per cent to 8 per cent.

Persons Whose Parents Were Born In:	FIGHT GERMANY?
	Yes	No
United States	5%	95%
Russia	3	97
Italy	4	96
Germany	3	97
Ireland	4	96
Canada	4	96
Austria	7	93
England	8	92
Poland	11	89
Other Countries	4	96

The survey likewise found only slight variations in sentiment by age and income groups. Among the poor voters there is a somewhat stronger disposition to fight Germany than among the more prosperous voters. In the upper income group only three per cent think the United States should declare war on Germany, whereas in the lower income groups the figure is seven per cent.

NEUTRALITY BILL BLOC IS CONFIDENT

that supporters of the measure might propose some changes in it. Senator George D. Simmons of Georgia, said he expected the foreign relations committee to meet soon to reconsider provisions restricting American shipping. He said shipping companies were seeking to work out some plan under which American vessels would not have to give up trans-Atlantic commerce, but added that no acceptable program had yet been offered.

As the measure now stands, it would forbid American ships to carry supplies of any kind to nations at war.

Today's debate brought renewed demands from the opposition that the question of repealing the present ban on arms sales to belligerents be divorced from other provisions of the neutrality bill.

Nye urged that the administration work for enactment of so-called "cash and carry" provisions without repeal of the arms embargo.

Senator Overton, Democrat, Louisiana, usually an administration supporter and the only southerner publicly committed against repeal of the embargo, told the senate that sales of armaments to warring countries would be followed by American credits and then: "The American flag and the American soldier will be following both to the battlefields of Europe."

Senator Tobey, Republican, New Hampshire, who first proposed that the pending measure be split into two parts—one repealing the embargo and the other embodying all other provisions of the legislation—argued that haste was necessary in enacting restrictions on American shipping, but that there was no need to hurry a decision on repealing the embargo.

Administration Side.
On the administration side, Senator Schwelb, Democrat, Washington, told the senate that the ban against arms sales to belligerents "contains definitely possible dangers of our involvement" in the European war.

He argued that the administration bill, with its prohibition against the transportation of goods to belligerents in American ships, promised "the most complete and orderly retreat from war that any nation has ever executed."

Administration leaders expressed strong opposition to the suggestions advanced by Nye and Tobey, and expressed confidence that Tobey's proposal would be killed when it comes to a vote next Monday.

Speeches Continue.

While the senate speechmaking proceeded, the neutrality issue brought a Republican outburst on the house floor, with Representative Mundt, Republican, South Dakota, demanding that the house be permitted 30 days' debate on the legislation if it passes the senate.

A demand for outright repeal of the arms embargo was made on the house floor by Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, a frequent administration critic, who declared that it was not unneutral to change the neutrality law now.

ter education than they might have had, parents who before might have laughed at college degrees, are sacrificing to give son or daughter a good education, Dr. Sanford said.

System Faces Crisis.
As for the increase in the University System of Georgia, Chancellor Sanford interpreted that as a "clear indication that the people of Georgia are pleased with the progress of the University System and have confidence and faith in its work."

The system faces a crisis, however, Dr. Sanford said, in paying for the professors necessary to teach the ever-increasing number of students.

The chancellor pointed to the University System building program which is almost complete. "With this large enrollment in the system, our present dormitory and classroom facilities are almost as inadequate today as they were at the beginning of the building program," he said. "With this increased enrollment, additional teachers must be added and the money is not available."

Only 60 Per Cent Paid.
"The University System can not operate on its present appropriation, even if paid in full. With only 60 per cent now being paid, a real crisis faces us."

Enrollment by colleges follows: University of Georgia, 3,352; Georgia Tech, 2,590; Atlanta Extension Center, 1,520; University of Georgia School of Medicine, 164; Georgia State College for Women, 1,445; Georgia Teachers' College, Statesboro, 500; Georgia State Women's College, Valdosta, 351.

Junior colleges: Georgia Southwestern College, Americus, 372; West Georgia College, Carrollton, 444; Middle Georgia College, Cochran, 423; South Georgia College, Douglas, 305; North Georgia College, 389; Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College, Tifton, 407.

Negro institutions: Georgia Normal and Agricultural College, Albany, 304; State Teachers and Agricultural College, Forsyth, incomplete; Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, 215; Georgia State College, Savannah, 564.

Total increase for the entire system is 688 over the same date in 1938.

AIRCORPS RECRUITS FLY TO ARMY BASE

Eight Georgians Leave for Barksdale Field.

Eight young army air corps recruits started their careers with a bang yesterday when an army plane landed at Candler field, took them aboard, and left immediately for Barksdale field, Louisiana, approximately 800 miles away. Georgians, they had enlisted as mechanics in the last two weeks.

They were Oliver N. Neath, Dudley; Clyde P. Williams, Social Circle; Cody W. Copeland, Fitzgerald; William M. Echols, Danielsville; Joe W. Hilburn, Cedar-town; Charles L. Smith, Waycross; Thomas P. Tison Jr., and Jeremiah B. Monk Jr., Moultrie.

Colonel D. D. Tompkins, district recruiting commander, said 16 new recruits were enlisted at the Atlanta office yesterday, and 25 will be sworn in today. In addition, there are 19 other recruiting stations in the district.

SCOUT GROUP REORGANIZED.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 5.—The Satilla district of the Okefenokee council, Boy Scouts of America, was reorganized this week with John H. King, of Waycross, as chairman, at a meeting of representatives from troops in Ware, Pierce, Brantley, Charlton and Clinch counties.

MINER IS ELECTROCUTED.

CARBON HILL, Ala., Oct. 5.—(P)—John Henry Wideman, 34-year-old coal miner, was killed today when he touched a live wire in the Hope mine of the Galloway Coal Co. A fellow worker told authorities Wideman touched the wire as he was coming out of the mine.

Destiny Points South.

If the United States now will turn resolutely from the ties which in the past have bound her trade and concepts with Europe and all that the power politics of that Old World imply, and face southward to the riches yet untouched, there is more than a little hope that a new and greater civilization can be built in the western hemisphere.

The Nazis are correct in some measure when they evaluate the democracies as decadent. They see, however, the mote and not the beam in the eye that is their own land. Europe is decadent. It is only because Europe has been drained through centuries of unremitting warfare that Europe is decadent. Every few years the best of her manhood has been thrown into the sacrificial fires of battle. The races have weakened. The continent has been impoverished until today entire peoples are content with a bare existence. Europe looks to the past, to the glories that were Rome's and have successively been those of the most powerful warlords.

The Americas can look to the future. It is not an easy future, but one rich in promise and one which the Panama conference apparently has determined upon. To be visionary about it, there is a feeling that two congresses have been meeting—one that of the United States, the other that of the western hemisphere. To those who will say this is a dream, let it be recalled that the United States of America was once a dream, born of the vision of man's freedom.

To accomplish the building of a new order in world relationships on this hemisphere will require many sacrifices of temporary nature on the part of the United States. This country must lead, but only by the extension of aid and example. It will be possible only because Latin America is the last and greatest of the untapped markets of the world. It is, in the larger sense, undeveloped. Only in small areas have the benefits of life as we know them been extended. South America also is an untapped storehouse of vital elements of food, of commerce and of industry—raw materials.

It is correct and yet somewhat wrong to say that the lands to the south raise the same things raised in this country and for this reason trade cannot be built beyond its present level. If it were true, then it would also be true of the 48 states, for there are few that cannot raise practically all the crops of other states. As it has developed, with modern transportation and communication, these goods are raised in the state best able to produce, while that state in turn buys from other states the goods which they best can produce. This process is a slow one and its development on a hemisphere basis naturally would follow only as lines of communication and transportation improve and, more important, as the peoples get to know each other better, as language becomes more flexible and as the United States grows out of the shell of insularity.

Rather than remaining preoccupied with the slow death of a European civilization, Americans should turn their eyes to the southward, where lies the future.

Constructive Plans

The Citizens' Advisory Committee appointed to study juvenile delinquency in Fulton county can do a great deal of constructive good in carrying out the suggestion that a program of vocational training be incorporated in the county's industrial farm at Hapeville.

Such training is highly desirable for many reasons. Chiefly, because it will change the institution from a strictly penal one to a training school. This is bound to have a far-reaching effect, not only on the inmates, but on all persons seriously and sincerely interested in solving the grave problem of juvenile crime in this section. Vocational training is also certain to go a long way in the rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents, giving them a more normal attitude toward themselves and society as a whole, plus inculcating a sense of responsibility which comes from learning a trade and working at it. It is true, as the old adage says, that the "devil finds work for idle hands." Conversely, boys who are busy at some constructive enterprise, especially interesting work with tools and machinery, find little time and have less inclination for mischief than they would otherwise.

From a monetary standpoint, vocational training at the Hapeville farm has possibilities. Judge Garland Watkins, of the juvenile court, has pointed out that county printing and county laundry might be handled by the boys at the farm, thus saving the county $100,000 a year. Relocating the county machine shops at the farm would also save a great deal of money. The vocational training plan is worth trying.

Problem Demonstration

President Roosevelt, during his press conference Tuesday, indirectly revealed a condition in America that should arouse the thoughtful consideration of every intelligent citizen. It is the lack of trained men for the nation's defense forces.

The President, in referring to the neutrality patrol of American waters, approved at the Pan-American conference, said that 40 destroyers, idle since shortly after World War days, are being refitted to augment the present patrol off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, but added that they would require several thousand enlisted men as crews, and indicated the Navy Department had little hope of manning them for some time to come.

Destroyers now in the patrol are undermanned, some having only 56 men out of a normal complement of about 125. Reserve officers have been called back into active service and 100 officers have been taken from the post-graduate school at Annapolis.

The navy is meeting with success in its recruiting campaign for 39,000 additional sailors, but it requires months of training, at best, before these men can be ready for active service afloat.

This problem may appear a minor one, in the present state of world affairs. But it is of vital significance to the United States.

There is but scant possibility of this nation being subject to attack, for years to come, by an alien enemy. However, should such an attack come, it is evident that present defenses would be pitifully inadequate, opposed to modern military power. It is equally evident that months are required for even rudimentary training in the highly technical business of modern war.

It should be the first concern of Americans, in a world aflame, to find some means to provide a trained man power, instantly available in emergency, to man our ships, our guns and all our ramparts of defense.

Scoffers Refuted

Human nature has a way of scoffing at scoffers. An excellent example is the record made by Fulton county police since the new system of county police operating their own cars in police work became effective. When the officers were first forced to buy their own cars for use while on duty, critics predicted the results would not be satisfactory. The scoffers used for argument the contention the police would not risk damaging their own cars in catching offenders as they had done with county-owned vehicles.

Now, the record speaks—and just the reverse of what the negative head-nodding boys said would happen has happened. The new system went into effect in the latter part of August, and records for September showed that officers made 246 cases, compared with 211 cases for the same month last year. Thus the figures tell the story of police activity—not inactivity.

Credit should be given the men who demonstrated that they are good officers regardless of systems.

Another baseball season draws to a fitful close, leaving a long winter to debate the issue—shall the Yankees have a fifth term?

WE AREN'T CYNICAL ENOUGH FOR EUROPEAN GAME

(From The Wilmington News.)

The United States is still the home of a relatively simple, trusting people, inclined to believe that black is black and white is white, and that when a man or a responsible government says "I will," they will.

The European war is giving us a quick education in international politics. Too quick, in fact, perhaps so quick that we cannot absorb it.

Russia, after sitting on the sidelines until Poland was safely defeated, pounced on the body like a buzzard to have her share. She did so, not only because it was a cheap way to add to Soviet territory, but because she did not trust Hitler to make a fair "divvy" of the spoils, and because she distrusts seeing Germany grow too powerful on her very borders. By moving those borders westward, she enlarged her own defense zone. This after years of loud assertion that she would instantly spring to the aid of any victim of aggression.

This is all to be expected in a jackal civilization. But we must remember that a country that was capable of thus dividing up with Germany a helpless Poland is also quite capable of dividing up with Japan a beaten China. Russia already has all of Inner Mongolia. By taking the rest of western China it can hem in all of northern British India, ready to move in should social revolution strike this socially restless country. What more natural than for her to say to Japan, "All right, you take the China seacoast; we'll take the western interior; why fight each other?"

Whereupon Japan will be free to boot out, finally and forever, all European and American interests in China. The Philippines, to be freed in 1946, would be just about ripe for her. It is not too soon to begin asking, "Well, what part do we want to take in that game?"

The United States, prone to be sentimental, and to think of international affairs in terms of personal relations between one honorable man and another, must learn to think of them in terms of naked national self-interest as interpreted by ruling cliques. That is the way the world is being run, and that is the world we have to face.

Face it, we must, but always with a thought for the better world that must emerge some day if there is to be anything left of life at all. If all the rest of the planet forgets that world-to-be, we must not forget it; the dream that today there must be a world in which decent men and women can live in freedom and in peace.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

PRESIDENTIAL GOOD SENSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Perhaps the best evidence of the President's good sense in dealing with the current emergency is the number of things his subordinates are not doing. For example, the ebullient secretary of the treasury, Harold L. Ickes, is not planning to shout for a third term in his forthcoming radio debate with General Hugh S. Johnson.

It is obvious enough why third-term shouting by a member of the President's cabinet is unwise at a time when politics are supposed to be adjourned. Nevertheless, the heat of a third term were the Ickes topic until a few days ago, when the President suggested that something less controversial might be more appropriate.

As the story comes from sound sources, the Ickes-Johnson debate was arranged during the summer, after the two men had written for and against the third term in Look. In those peaceful days, third-term talk was cheerfully countenanced at the White House, where the idea of the debate was cleared. With his clearance papers all in order, Ickes proceeded to write one of his usual rip-snorting, slam-banging, super-adjectival third-term speeches. At the last moment, however, he had qualms and took the speech to the President. The President, who had forgotten all about the debate, if his secretariat had ever told him of it, promptly asked Ickes to throw the speech away. Ickes then issued a short statement announcing a change of plans.

Ickes' action in rechecking his White House clearance was in line with the policy of the President's other pro-third-term lieutenants, who are no longer pushing their pet project in any active way. Their passivity may have been suggested by their belief that, under present circumstances, they do not need to push. But, whatever their reasons, the fact remains that they have ceased stirring up political turmoil.

PEACE, PERFECT PEACE

The new self-restraint has asserted itself in the administrative as well as the political field, as is proven by the fact that the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board have called a truce in their ancient feud. There is no testimony that the President intervened to make peace, but the cessation of hostilities unquestionably expressed his determination to have unity in a chance time.

On Friday, September 22, only a fortnight ago, Chairman Mariner S. Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board, infuriated Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., by ordering renewed reserve system purchases of government bonds without notifying the Treasury. Morgenthau, not quite trusting himself to negotiate the matter, sent his able technical assistants, W. Randolph Burgess and Daniel Bell, to protest to Eccles. Eccles, quite understanding that Morgenthau was not without cause for anger, promised that thereafter he would not change his policy toward the bond market without full advance consultation. An atmosphere of "comfortable co-operation" was accepted.

Such atmospheres have been created before, however, only to be dissolved. The truce was really confirmed a little later, after news of the Treasury-Reserve Board difficulty was published in this space, when Secretary Morgenthau telephoned Eccles to say that, so far as he was concerned, the irritations of the past were entirely forgotten. Eccles responded to Morgenthau's handsome gesture with a handsome one of his own, writing Morgenthau a genial letter in which he emphasized his desire to co-operate with the Treasury at all times. It was on the basis of this letter that Morgenthau announced last Thursday that "as of today" all was serene on the Treasury-Reserve Board front. Since then, the new good relations have given every sign of becoming permanent and dependable.

NO TEAPOT TEMPESTS

These matters may seem tempests to the average citizen. Yet they are not. Had Ickes emitted his third-term blast, it would certainly have caused general ructions and might even have had serious repercussions in the neutrality debate. As for the Treasury-Reserve Board feud, it had been a source of bad feeling and divided councils for several years. Its results were frequently very harmful, and while it may break out again, the recognition that feuding should be stopped is at least one great gain. In truth, the two incidents of Ickes' torn-up speech and the end of the old feud admirably illustrate the harassments which the President must manage to survive.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Another Home Run!

This is written on Wednesday afternoon. One of the boys from the composing room just placed a card on my desk. As he laid it down he remarked, "Somebody just hit another homerun."

And so I was reminded, again, of the baseball World Series. Friends were in the office some 30 minutes ago. Wanted an address. After discovering it for them, the man remarked, "What's the score now?" and I had to ask him, "The score of what?"

Somehow, I can't find any interest in World Series baseball, on my part, this year. Oh, I know all the arguments. You needn't repeat them. That it is good to keep youthful interests, that it takes your mind off morbid thoughts, that it is a typically American institution and everyone should be interested and partisan.

Well, I suppose I'd prefer to read that the Yankees had lost. Just because they've won too frequently. I'm congenitally for the underdog, in sports, anyway.

But, frankly, this year I can't arouse any excitement at all, at all. Maybe it's age creeping on. Maybe it's indigestion. And maybe I've developed into an introvert. Don't know. All I do know is that it doesn't matter a whit to me whether they play or not.

However, On the Other Hand—

However, on the other hand, I'm delighted to think that American youth is turning its thoughts to balls and strikes, errors and hits, rather than to gas masks and machine guns. For that is one of the important reasons why it is good today, to live in America instead of Europe, one of the reasons why we must keep war far away from our shores.

It is national tragedy when youth's interest is perverted from the diamond or the football field to the drill ground and the rifle range.

They stopped all professional sports here and there when the war broke out. Possibly they have restored some, by now. But, in the early days, they didn't want anything that would cause the gathering, in one place, of large crowds. That's the reason they closed all the theaters, too. They had disturbing visions of enemy air raiders dropping bombs on crowds. So they tried to prevent, as far as possible, the existence of such crowds.

We enjoyed Soccer. We saw one professional soccer game, the wife and I, while in England. Enjoyed it a lot. It was my wife's first experience as an onlooker at that sport and she found it fast and thrilling and exciting to watch.

But, before we left, the soccer fields were closed. They had released professional players from their contracts and, as a matter of fact, the majority of them were in the army or the navy or the R. A. F. They were talking about arranging games between various military units, with teams representing regiments or battalions or divisions. But without crowds. The game for the game's sake, as it were, instead of for the box office.

And, when the leagues are re-

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Courage of NEW YORK, Oct. 5.

I have never been able to figure out why persons who have denounced Fascism and Nazism but have openly proclaimed a resolve never to say a word against Communism, holding it to be the greatest experiment ever made for human betterment, should be called Communists. If I thought Communism was the greatest experiment ever made for human betterment I would not only join the Communist party but insist on being known as a Communist.

I would refuse to be carried on the secret rolls of the party and would scorn the role of fellow-traveler and the ambiguity and stealth which are self-imposed on any person who attempts to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds. If such were my conviction and avowed belief I would deem it no slander to be called a member of the party.

But, of course, if I did believe in Communism I would necessarily believe also in duplicity, treachery and dissemblance, for these are not faults but virtues—in fact, required traits—and that would be a complication. It is impossible for any person who is not qualified by character to be a Communist or a Fascist or a Nazi to put himself in the position of a confirmed believer and say what he would do if he were a Communist, Fascist or Nazi. It is like trying to say what one would do if one were insane.

But those who are not believers in any of these isms often face the problem of dealing fairly with individuals who have indorsed Communism and yet pose as martyrs and decry Red-baiting when they are taken at their word and regarded as Communists.

Honesty

Men of honest men-tality believe that they themselves would proclaim their membership if they approved of Communism, forgetting that if they did so believe they would no longer value honesty. They see no wrong or harm but rather a polite acknowledgment in giving the bolo full credit for beliefs which he has frankly stated, but often discover to their puzzlement, that this mere acknowledgment is resented as an accusation.

If a man says, "I was drunk last night," and another says, "Oh, so you were drunk, eh?" the first one says, "Boy, I'll say I was drunk."

But if a Red says, "I regard Communism as the greatest experiment ever made for human betterment," and another man says, "Oh, a Communist, are you?" the Communist, with his weirdly erratic reasoning, sometimes replies, "Don't call me that. I'll sue you."

Of course, a certain opprobrium goes with it, but that comes from within Communism itself. The very word is a monster, like a cartoonist's dragon, reminder of treachery and cunning, of sneaky parliamentary manipulation in legislative halls, of vast slaughters in the mysterious "Russian" land, of the suppression of human rights and conscience, of the counterfeiting of the documents and money of this amiable and trusting nation by the government of Soviet Russia and of connivance, even active participation, in such traitorous indecencies by Communist leaders who are nominally Americans.

They Shoot

Men For That

All that is in Communism is itself, and nobody who regards it as the greatest experiment ever made for human betterment is also allowed to break the package and select only a few attractive theories. They shoot men in Russia for attempting to break the package. They have to take the package as well as the theories, and if you do accept or indorse Communism the opprobrium gets on you.

A number of American Reds have attempted to unstink themselves lately, because Stalin finally acknowledged openly the obvious identity of Sovietism with Hitlerism. They seek to do this by renouncing Stalinism for that particular reason, but that isn't enough. They aren't renouncing Communism but just one embarrassing act by the leader.

Their approval still covers all that Communism was up to the point of this alliance so they are still Communists, if political divorces, and Americans will be slow to accept them by their maiden names.

'Anything German.'

In Stanford-Le-Hope, England, Edward Jones, 75, keeps a coffin atop his mantlepiece, says: "We have been getting a lot of these German coffins. I don't like German coffins. I had this one made to measure of English elm and it fits me, though I am afraid I keep on living I shall put on weight and it may get a little tight."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MC GILL.

PROSPECTS OF PEACE?

This is being written, of course, some 12 hours before Adolf Hitler's speech to the impotent reichstag. He is scheduled to offer a peace plan.

There are a few straws in the wind.

In England, Lloyd George, prime minister during the World War, has warned England that every consideration should be given the peace plan. For this he has been called a traitor by one of the government's leaders.

A statement from the Labor benches in the house of commons that the member had never known the people so hostile to a war was shouted down by a chorus of "No! No! No!" from the government benches.

In France, two men were arrested for circulating peace petitions and seeking signatures; the labor unions were dissolved and the Communists threatened with arrest.

Against this is the reported feeling by the "man in the street" that Hitler must be halted and that his word is not to be taken. He has broken it so often in the past.

NO FIGHT FOR POLAND?

Lloyd George last week stated the British would not fight to restore to power the Polish regime which has been overthrown. He made the statement in the heat of an argument with the Polish ambassador to London. It cannot be estimated how many Britons feel as does the little Welshman.

Some do. Many Americans feel it is unfortunate England did not choose to fight for Czechoslovakia rather than Poland. Poland was in no sense a democracy. Poland was ruled by a military junta. It succeeded Josef Pilsudski, who began as a Marxist and until his death was as hard-handed a dictator as ever created a concentration camp. The Polish constitution was built to protect the great landowners and the military heads.

In Poland, a relatively small country, there were 4,000,000 peasants who owned no land. The "nobles," who really governed Poland, owned tremendous estates. It is these estates which the Russians, with a great fanfare of publicity, are turning over to the peasants in their share of Polish territory. How much of it actually is turned over is not known. It also should be remembered the Russian government retains the title. They do not give it or sell it to the peasants.

Raymond Leslie Buell, who lectured in Atlanta at Dr. Cullen Gosnell's Institute of Citizenship, reported that most of the Polish farmers lived in poverty more abject than that of the worst-off Southern tenant or share-cropper family. The borders of Poland had been preserved at a terrific cost to the well-being of the Polish people.

Against this is the fact the Poles are a nationality; are a hard-working, worth-while people.

They themselves might have been a rallying point. Their government was not. As evidence of this one has but to recall that the military "nobles," Beck, Moscicki and Smigly-Rydz, fled to safety in a foreign land. The army commanders saved themselves. The army fought on, defending Warsaw with one of the most heroic defenses in history, long after their leaders had fled and deserted.

England has guaranteed the borders of Poland. Obviously Russia will not surrender what she has taken. If a small "buffer" state is created it is to be hoped it will be entrusted to Polish leaders of a better character than Smigly-Rydz. The Polish people deserve better.

WHAT PRICE PEACE?

Hitler did not want a World War. He never believed England would fight to defend Poland. Certainly England and France did not want war.

One wonders how far Hitler will go if England and France reject the peace plan. We likely will have an armistice for awhile until his plan is studied. If not, there will be monstrous damage done by both air forces.

Hitler must be afraid of Russia. Russia has taken a large share of Poland. Russia has taken in Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. Russia dominates the Balkans. Hitler cannot believe Russia, having attained all this without fighting, will fight for additional glory. They have what they wish. They already are seeking to rent ships for trade with the Allies, hoping the United States will be foolish enough to retain its embargo. Hitler must be worried.

His peace plea, like his "wooden-horse-of-Troy" message about the English plot to sink the ship bringing Americans back home, is clever. He now can have his subs sink the ship and shout, "I told you England would do it." He can, by a suave peace plea, give himself, despite all his lying and blackmail, a diplomatic advantage.

The Richest Are Beggars If

Their Living Depends On

Somebody's Generosity

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

As money is the root of all evil, so the chief cause of all quarrels, between life partners as between nations, is some kind of property. Once the question of the division of spoils is amicably settled, little remains to threaten the peace of the household.

In the time of our fathers there was a rule, made by man, that the earners should be the spenders. And since women were forbidden by custom to earn anything, the man of the house kept the purse, paid the bills and bought his wife's shoes. Thus everything his wife obtained was a gift, requiring pretty thanks, and a good husband enjoyed the life-long privilege of playing Santa Claus.

To be a "generous husband" was to attain the ultimate in domestic virtue, and the words were included in the flattery on his tombstone. That arrangement may still be found among the older generation. A man in our town remarked a few years ago that he hated to see a husband be tight (i. e. stingy) in dealing with his wife. No such charge, he said, could be laid against him. When his wife asked for money to buy a pound of butter or a dozen eggs, he did not count out the exact sum required, but carelessly handed her four bits or even a dollar and said nothing about the change.

The younger women, especially the college graduates who have taught school or otherwise earned their way for a few years, usually find a way to avoid the "Gimme" practice. Sometimes they overdo it.

One young man who was a saver and fond of his possessions postponed marriage until he was thirty and then chose a lone-wolf individualist whose outstanding trait was possessiveness.

He built a house and bought a fine car, and then discovered that the word "ours" wasn't in his wife's vocabulary. She always said "my." And acted as though she meant it. And since he saw no fun in buying things if he couldn't own them, he lost interest and quit trying.

Either extreme means trouble. The practical French arrange these matters frankly, but Americans are too sentimental. Discussing the money split isn't romantic. If the girl mentions it she seems hard-boiled, and the boy is reluctant to make any bargain that will limit his control of the pocketbook.

But some definite arrangement there must be to preserve peace and self-respect and avoid hurt to tender feelings. A fixed pension of $50 brings more contentment than $75 in small hand-outs.

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

"You Haven't Seen the Bremen Around, Have You Bill?"

State High School Confederation Spent $27,000,000 Last Year

Georgia Provided 51 1/2 Per Cent of Sum; Will Supply But 40 Per Cent This Year; Education Cost $45 Per Pupil.

Georgia's confederation of high school systems spent $27,000,000, of which the state provided 51 1/2 per cent, to educate 600,000 public school children last fiscal year, Auditor Zach Arnold reported yesterday.

The state will supply only 40 per cent this year, the auditor said. It cost the state $45 per pupil for public school education last year, the auditor's report said. The department of education received $11,643,639.57 by appropriation last year. This compares with $13,834,698.63 for 1938 and $7,484,755.75 for the calendar year 1936.

The state school system is a confederation of approximately 1,500 units. An educational act of 1937 pledged the state to support a seven-month minimum term. Georgia has been able to do this only the first year after passage of the legislation.

Teachers are due approximately $4,000,000 for salaries last year and officials estimated the state could pay for only four months this term, or until January.

Payment for and to local systems totaled $10,432,846.57. Personal service costs included $600 each to the 159 county school superintendents.

Liabilities listed included $1,575 due State School Superintendent M. D. Collins for three and one-half months' salary.

Grants from the United States government included $643,587.47 for vocational education and $598,620.02 for vocational rehabilitation.

Gifts were listed as $10,510 for supplementing salaries of county supervisors, of negro schools, and $15,080.34 for salaries and travel expenses of the director, the associate director and assistant supervisor of negro education plus summer school training of county supervisors of negro schools.

The department collected $283.50 for certification of teachers licenses for non-residents.

Expert Finds Lack of Oil Is Chink in German Armor

Palmer Says Reich Needs 126,000,000 Barrels a Year to Fuel Mechanized Warfare, With Slim Supplies Expected From Rumania and Russia.

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER, Noted Military Expert. For the North American Newspaper Alliance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A mighty little word of only three letters must be beating a warning refrain in Hitler's ears as he watches a column of tanks rumble by, watches air bombers rise for flight, or returns the salute of a submarine crew at Wilhelmshaven that claims a torpedoed ship to its credit.

The refrain will not be silenced by the thunder of his own voice or the automatic roar of answering cheers when he makes his speech tomorrow.

Oil-oil-oil—the oil that makes gasoline, fuel and lubricants! Mussolini surely has it in mind as he considers just how much, and just what kind, of a bow he shall make to any requests of his axis-partner in the present juncture of their relations.

Italy's Achilles Heel. For all he has in storage. He has no wells, no coal for synthetic production. If the British and French navies should close in on the long coastline of the Italian bootleg in a sea siege, all sources and Russian fields, that would relieve pressure on the Allies on the western front, especially if the Germans should be met by a reception committee of the Russian army in fighting mood.

Transport Difficult.

Granted the Reich had the Russian fields, how transport the oil? There is only one Soviet pipe line, that from Baku to Batoum. To build one to Germany would require at least two years. Otherwise, the oil must go up the Danube by barge or by very limited railroad transport. It would take at least 10 months to build refineries for the increased production.

As Hitler prepares his speech, Field Marshal Goering might put a little note on his desk, that the knocking of German bombers' engines for want of 100-octane gas might end the war, and, under the note, the above figures for further consideration. Included with them this fact:

The immense amount of manpower required to mine a ton of coal, which yields three and one-half gallons of gas. Already, German capacity for synthetic production seems to have reached its limit.

It is hardly worth while to mention some other figures, which any totalitarian censor would promptly black out. It is that the United States annually produces and consumes about a billion and a quarter of barrels, and could promptly and enormously increase production in case of an emergency.

EXCLUSIVE

of import would be closed to him.

Prime Minister Chamberlain may not be able to announce many important offensive victories, but the mention of petroleum products must whisper a reassuring prospect to him for a long war. Britain and France have plenty of oil in sight for a 20-year war, access to many of the world's great oil fields, as well as their own production in the near east.

It was horse, foot and guns in the old days of war. Now it is oil, foot, guns and bombs.

No Salvage in Oil.

A nation may cadaverously manage as it tightens its belt on short food rations. Synthetic may take the place of natural rubber, and synthetic may take the place of natural rubber, and synthetic may take the place of natural rubber. Shell cases may be saved after a shot is fired, iron, brass and copper retrieved from domestic installations, but not oil.

Gasoline is the very life-blood of mechanization, as anyone realizes when his car runs out of gas between filling stations. A nation at war has to watch its gas meter as carefully as a motorist on the desert.

Without gas, army motor trucks are useless as stationary packing boxes, tanks are stalled, planes cannot rise from the ground, and a submarine is either tied up in port or has to rise to the surface and wait for a tow from an enemy ship. A modern army is as crippled without gas as an army before the era of the automotive engine without horses or mules.

Eight-Month Limit.

How much gas and oil has Germany? No doubt she has been storing both. She got some by barter from Mexico, but that field and all overseas fields are closed to her by the blockade. The lowest estimate of storage is enough for four months of war; the highest, from any except German sources, is eight months' supply. Say she has six months' supply. This would only carry her into May, if she started a campaign soon on the western front, which is one warrant for General Gamelin, French commander-in-chief, to keep to a policy of watchful waiting.

German consumption in 1938, practically peacetime, was 53,000,000 barrels. Of this, about 39,000,000 was imported. She got the rest from her own fields, from coal and by synthetic methods and the mixture of alcohol and gasoline. Her total oil import production in 1938 was hardly more than a million barrels more than consumption for storage.

Needs 126,000,000 Barrels. She must have in storage a considerable quantity of the 100-octane gas which is used by our army and navy planes and the Yankee Clippers and invaluable for speed, power and range for planes and to prevent engine trouble.

It is difficult to produce such high grade gas from coal and it is doubtful if Germany has a plant for producing it from petroleum. Britain has a 1,000,000-barrel plant, and France one nearly completed.

It is estimated that a mechanized nation and a high mechanized army at war will multiply peacetime consumption by two and one-half times, which lifts the Reich's war consumption to 126,000,000 barrels.

Where is she to get this enormous amount? Not much economy is possible in the restriction of the use of passenger cars. Many are required for generals, staff officers and key men of all kinds.

Rumania Not Enough. How about Rumania as a source of supply? Her total production is 48,000,000 barrels. Of this, she exports about 32,000,000 barrels. Much of this goes to neighboring countries. Germany gets only 25 per cent.

And Russia? Her production is 206,000,000 barrels, of which she exports about 7,000,000. Could German engineers greatly increase her surplus? They have been employed, but they have not made much headway. The Soviets' oil production has not kept pace with Russian mechanization in trucks, farm tractors and industrial plants and of the army, which has continually enlarged domestic consumption.

Stalin may say to Hitler, "home folks first." If Hitler should send an army to take over the Rumanian

LEADER IN DEKALB, L. T. Y. NASH, DIES

Rites To Be Held This Afternoon in Rock Chapel.

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., Oct. 5.—L. T. Y. Nash, 74, for 20 years a resident of Stone Mountain, died at his home here this afternoon after several weeks' illness. He was a former resident of Rock Chapel.

Prominent in business, religious and civic affairs, he had served as a member of the DeKalb county commission 12 years, was for a number of years a member of the county board of education, and had served more than 40 years as a steward in the Methodist church. He was a trustee of Rock Chapel camp ground, and president of the Nash Reunion association, only one of whose gatherings he had missed in 29 years. He had been actively interested in 4-H club work in DeKalb county the last 15 years.

Mr. Nash was married 53 years ago to Miss Ludie Bond, of Lithonia, who died in 1929. He is survived by three sons, J. T. Nash of Lithonia, L. B. Nash of Stone Mountain and T. L. Nash of Louisville, Ky.; two sisters, Mrs. J. T. Pate of Thomson and Mrs. C. C. Kiser of Quitman; one grandchild and a number of nephews and nieces.

Rites will be held at 2 o'clock (C.S.T.) Friday afternoon in Rock Chapel church, the Rev. Henry Dillard and the Rev. R. E. Elliott officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard.

TROOPER INDICTED AS GIRL'S SLAYER

Toy Pistol 'Self-Defense' Case Scheduled for Trial Tuesday.

MAUCH CHUNG, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Benjamin Franklin, 33, suspended Pennsylvania police corporal, was indicted on murder and involuntary manslaughter charges today in the slaying of 14-year-old Joan Stevens, Nesquehoning school girl, June 5.

District Attorney Albert Heimbach announced Franklin would be placed on trial Tuesday. The trooper has been at liberty under bail since his arrest soon after the killing.

The grand jury heard only three witnesses yesterday. The Stevens girl was killed near her home while Franklin and Private Edward Swartz questioned her in their police car about a purported bank robbery scheme. Franklin contended he fired in self-defense when the girl yanked a pistol from her purse and threatened to "blow your brains out." The pistol proved to be a toy.

GEORGIAN NAMED HEAD OF INSURANCE AGENTS

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Sidney O. Smith, of Gainesville, Ga., was elected president today of the National Association of Insurance Agents.

At the same time the association's 44th annual convention chose Payne Midyette, of Tallahassee, Fla., to fill the newly-created post of vice president. Oaths of office were administered by Insurance Commissioner C. F. J. Harrington, of Massachusetts.

William H. Mann, of Los Angeles, Cal., retiring president, was elected chairman of the association's executive committee, a position held for the past year by Smith.

Return to International Law To Avoid War, Urges Cox

Georgia Legislator Expresses Sympathy for Administration's Desire to Repeal Embargo, Strongly Advocates 'Cash-and-Carry' Provision.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—In a dispassionate discussion of the pending neutrality bill today, Representative Cox, of Georgia, in a half hour's speech on the floor of the house, urged his colleagues to return to international law if they wished to keep this country out of war.

He expressed sympathy, however, for the administration's desire to repeal the existing embargo on arms and munitions and strongly advocated a "cash-and-carry" provision in any new neutrality legislation which may be enacted.

Stresses Duties

Representative Cox stressed the duties imposed upon the United States as a neutral nation, urging, especially, that this country prevent use of its territory by either belligerent—Great Britain or Germany.

"America does not wish to enter this conflict," he said. "She has no grievance to redress. No wrong has been imposed upon her. She has not been denied any right under the law of nations. America has no desire to impose her ideas of government upon any other nation. She has no desire for territorial conquest. She seeks only peace."

"I believe that the road to peace lies for the present in the preservation of our neutrality under international law—a course which has guided us so successfully throughout our history. We need not become involved in this war. We should not."

In short, Judge Cox emphasized the non-combatant phases of the present congressional debate rather than the neutrality angle.

Two Principles

He laid down two fundamental principles of neutrality imposed upon America, (1) that in all matters connected with the European war, we should abstain from helping either party; and (2), that in matters not connected with the war the United States should not refuse to one of the belligerents that which it granted to another.

"But," he asserted, "neutral states are not under obligation to prevent individuals within their territory from giving expression to opinions or criticisms unfavorable to either of the belligerents; and it was in recognition of this principle of international law that President Wilson in 1914 appealed to our citizens to be 'impartial in thought as well as action' in order that, while unrestricted by the terms of international law, we might nevertheless give no cause for offense."

Also, President Roosevelt, in his recent proclamation, pointed out that although the laws and treaties of the United States do not interfere with free expression of opinion and sympathy, yet they do impose an impartial neutrality. Although these requirements are in excess of the requirements of international law, they undoubtedly are highly desirable and justifiable as a matter of domestic policy.

Likewise, a neutral state is not required to prevent individuals from lending money to either of the belligerents, although it may prevent such practice by law. In 1914, our State Department declared that loans by American bankers to belligerents were inconsistent with the spirit of neutrality.

Representative Cox also pointed out that with respect to the sale of munitions of war the practice for neutral states had been an unwillingness to restrict the ordinary commercial relations of their citizens with belligerents. He contended that there never had been any question that international law permitted trade in contraband of war subject to the rights and powers of belligerents to prevent it.

BRITISH OFFICIALS SILENT ON GERMAN IROQUOIS WARNING

Other Sources Assert Tip Absurd; Kennedy Also Mum on Information
U. S. Ship Will Be Sunk.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(Friday)—The British admiralty maintained official silence early today on the White House announcement that the head of the German navy had warned that the United States liner Iroquois would be sunk under circumstances similar to the loss of the British liner Athenia.

Unofficial sources at the admiralty declared, however, any intimation that Britain would have anything to do with such a thing was "too absurd to deny."

News of the announcement in Washington was relayed to the highest British naval officials after midnight. An hour later came the statement that the admiralty would have nothing to say at the moment.

United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy said he had been advised of the warning given by German Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, but that he had no comment.

The list of passengers on the Iroquois was not available at the United States embassy or the London office of the United States lines, which chartered the liner to repatriate Americans stranded in Ireland.

Kennedy remained at his desk long past midnight and remained in contact with various officials.

MITCHELL, PADEN TERMS RUN INTO '40

State Welfare Chief Called 'Mistaken' on Fulton Board Vacancies.

Braswell Deen's letter to the county commissioners Wednesday asking them either to re-elect W. E. Mitchell and Dean S. Paden as members of the county board of welfare or appoint two others since the terms of Mitchell and Paden had "expired June 30," appeared a bit premature yesterday.

Even while the commissioners were considering the request of the state welfare director, replying in the commission office were Mitchell and Paden's commissions, signed by Deen himself, showing that both their terms run into 1940.

Mitchell was appointed for a two-year term from January 12, 1938, and Paden for a two-year term from September 27, 1938.

"It was just a mistake by Mr. Deen," Mitchell said yesterday.

He added that Commissioner Gloor Halley, to whom the matter of the "elections" was referred, had informed him that he had examined the records and found out that Deen was in error.

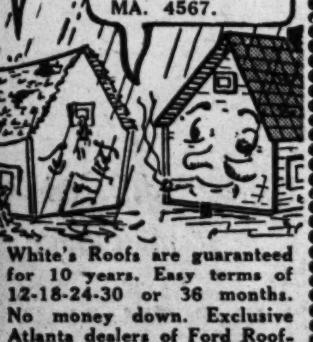

Halley still has before him the matter of the resignation of John K. Otley Jr., as a member of the welfare board. The commissioners have not been officially notified of the resignation.

584 Passengers Aboard 6,209-Ton Liner Iroquois

A 6,209-ton vessel, the Iroquois left Liverpool Monday for New York under charter of the United States Lines.

She is owned by the Clyde Mallory Line (American) and is used normally in the New York, Charleston, Jacksonville, Miami coastal service. She was taken from that service to help return refugee Americans from Europe.

Built at Newport News, Va., in 1927, the Iroquois is 394 feet long, has a beam of 62 feet and carries a crew of 177. Her home port is New York.

She sailed from New York September 22 under the command of Captain E. A. Chelton.

The U. S. Lines said the Iroquois left Cobb Tuesday with 584 passengers and no cargo. She is due in New York next Wednesday.

ALLIES ARE FIRM, PERTINAX ASSERTS

that the Fuehrer's eventual proposals would be carefully examined. As a matter of fact, such a contradiction is merely superficial. It exists in form. But not in substance.

The truth is that the British and French prime ministers were careful not to give Hitler the smallest opportunity to tell the German people that his peace offer had been curtly turned down and thus regain their loyalty and devotion.

Were Hitler ready to resign his functions, disappear from public life and give back Austria to Czechoslovakia and Poland to Poland, European peace, of course, would come into its own. But, if German proposals ever reach them, Messrs. Chamberlain, Halifax and Daladier will not be able to find there anything of the kind.

In governmental circles in Paris and London, it is realized more and more that, in the present circumstances, to waver and hesitate in the prosecution of the war might have most untoward repercussions upon the behavior of third powers. For instance, upon the behavior of Turkey, whose foreign minister, now in Moscow, tries to conciliate (with distinct prospects of success, it is asserted tonight) the Ankara government's promises to help the Balkan states uphold their neutrality and France and England protect the existing order of things in the Eastern Mediterranean with the closest relations maintained with Soviet Russia for the last 15 years.

Another Instance.

For another instance, upon the behavior of Italy. Italy refused to join in war against Poland in the second week of August, when Foreign Minister Ciano went to Salzburg and Berchtesgaden for the following reasons:

Firstly, because the existence of an independent Poland was a tenet of her policy, and she could not condone its destruction. Secondly, because she had not been given the respite of two or three years needed to complete her military preparedness which was stipulated when the "steel pact" was concluded. Thirdly, because once more German claims in central and eastern Europe seemed to take precedence of her own claims elsewhere.

In brief, Italy thought at the time that the best method to follow to promote her own program was to go ahead for an indefinite period with what was then called the "war of nerves."

No doubt, the Italian government would like today to revert to that method and for the purpose would readily favor the initiation of peace negotiations. It may be added that a premature peace, which could not but conform to the Munich pattern and even something worse, would set a new premium upon "the steel pact" and open to its signatories prospects more attractive than ever.

However, Italy will probably refrain from attempting anything of that sort, as long as she is convinced that the French and British cabinets are determined to push the struggle to a successful issue and does not perceive which side is going to be the winner in the long run.

But it might be feared that she would deem it to her interest to strive to bring about peace parleys once she had become convinced that there was, at any rate, a good chance for success in the undertaking. Of course, having tried her hand at such a job, she could not be speedily disappointed. But her disappointment might easily result afterwards in a gradual change of her present neutrality into an attitude of hostility.

Such are the reasons why Daladier is wise not to allow the illusion to install itself into the mind of any foreign diplomat he meets that the western powers may leave their work half done.

On the German side an equal fixity of purpose is surely to be found, but coupled with an opportunity as to selection of means that may defeat its own ends. I am told that Dr. Burckhardt, the lone secretary of the League of Nations, abandoned at Danzig, sent last month to the secretary general of the League a report of a conversation he had with Hitler of August 12. The gist of that document is that Hitler, who, as usual, did all the talking, spent his time advising Bolshevism.

LINER TO BE SUNK, REICH WARNS U. S.

British, French or other ship would do such a thing.

He explained, however, that as a "purely precautionary measure" a convoy of naval and coast guard vessels would meet the Iroquois at sea and accompany her into port. The captain of the steamer, meanwhile, was asked to make a careful search of the ship for explosives which might be aboard.

Before handing the statement to reporters, Early said the matter had been fully discussed at a cabinet meeting today and it was decided all of the facts should be made known.

He asserted that the information was given to the United States naval attaché at the embassy in Berlin by Grand Admiral Raeder, of the German navy.

The President received it last night. The statement issued at the White House said that Raeder had advised the attaché "that according to information on which he relied, an American ship, the Iroquois, is to be sunk when it nears our American east coast."

"The sinking of the Iroquois, Admiral Raeder said, would be accomplished through a repetition of circumstances which marked the loss of the steamship Athenia."

The Athenia was sunk on the day England entered the war against Germany.

As a "purely precautionary measure," the White House statement asserted, "a coast guard vessel and several navy ships from the patrol will meet the Iroquois at sea and will accompany her to an American port."

Early emphasized that these armed ships would not be an escort in the true sense of the word, since the Iroquois still would be under command of her captain, and would not take orders from the government vessels.

The captain of the steamer has been advised of the information received from the German admiralty and has been asked to "make careful search for any possible explosives on board his ship."

The whole of this information also has been relayed to the British and French admiralties, the White House disclosed.

The Iroquois sailed from Ireland October 2 with what was described as a full list of American passengers. Formerly in the American coastwise trade, she was chartered by the Maritime Commission to pick up in Ireland Americans who had been caught in Europe at the start of the war.

Early asserted that the cabinet meeting today had been devoted "practically entirely" to a thorough discussion of the information about the Iroquois.

"The White House," he told reporters, "is not putting it out for the purpose of creating any alarms. We don't believe, as a matter of fact, that many people in the United States will believe the report is true or could be true."

"We can't imagine that any British, or French or other ships would do such a thing as the dispatch states."

Many senators, busy with their fight over neutrality legislation, were reluctant to comment on the White House statement regarding the German navy warning that the Iroquois would be sunk. They stated that they preferred to withhold comment until they had studied the statement thoroughly.

However, Chairman Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, of the senate foreign relations committee, remarked tersely: "It occurs to me that no one would have more knowledge of such facts than Admiral Raeder—nor as to the method of destruction of a vessel."

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters he thoroughly approved President Roosevelt's handling of the situation.

"He could do nothing less than order a convoy for a peaceful American vessel with American citizens aboard when a threat has been made that it was going to be sunk," Connally asserted.

Another senator, LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin, said he could not see how the White House statement could affect the senate fight on neutrality and thus declined to discuss it.

TEACHERS, WELFARE PAY SECURITY URGED

Clubwomen Ask That Funds Be Kept From Becoming
'Political Footballs.'

Moves to safeguard state funds for school teachers, welfare activities and health from being made "political footballs" were taken yesterday by the executive board of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs through the adoption of specific recommendations.

The recommendations will be submitted to Governor Rivers by Mrs. Marvin Medlock, of Atlanta, state chairman of legislation, and Mrs. Albert Hill, of Greenville.

The board adopted three separate recommendations.

The first asks for legislation requiring that budget authorities carefully estimate the total needs of those receiving funds from the welfare department and that the funds be earmarked so as to maintain a uniform relief program throughout the year.

"In other words, if an old person is receiving $8 in January we want to know he will get $8 every month of the year," Mrs. Medlock said. "We don't want any diversion of funds except through the 'grandfather clause.'"

A similar request was made in each of the other two recommendations, which dealt specifically with health and education.

In addition to urging that funds be earmarked for elementary and higher education, the board also asked that teachers' salaries be protected through the establishment of a specific salaries account as distinguished from the "expense" or "overhead" accounts. Salaries of personnel not engaged in actual instruction also would be included.

Mrs. Medlock, who presented the recommendations to the board, is a member of the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers.

GOVERNOR REVOKES PARDON OF DANIELS

Prisoner Reported Unruly
While Being Treated at Battle Hill.

Governor Rivers yesterday revoked a conditional pardon granted July 25 to James Daniels, of Fulton county, who was serving a four-to-five-year sentence for larceny of an auto. Daniels was convicted in February, 1937, and had served more than half of his sentence when granted the conditional pardon.

Downing Musgrove, Governor's executive secretary, said the pardon was granted to permit the prisoner to undergo treatment at Battle Hill sanatorium and that it was revoked because officials at the institution had reported the ex-prisoner had become unruly. Musgrove said Daniels had been remanded to the State Board of Penal Administration for assignment to a place of confinement.

New Bag Contains Necessities For a Quick Complexion Make-Up

This lovely Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, Lana Turner, knows this new powder with its suede-like finish has sufficient depth and color to give buoyancy to the countenance.

Rouge and Lipstick in Fall Shades Easy To Apply, Lasting in Color

By LILLIAN MAE.

Of course you've at one time or another had a little cosmetic bag for your powder puff, so that powder wouldn't lose in your handbag. But have you ever possessed one small enough to fit into your bag without bulging and yet compact enough to contain all your necessary items of make-up?

No? Well, here's your chance! One of the French cosmetic and perfume houses has on the market right here in your own city a perfectly fitted, most convenient moire bag about three inches by four-and-a-half and in it there's each in its separate little pocket, a lipstick and box of dry rouge, both in gold finish; a powder puff in ivory finish with gold knob cover which, with just a light tapping releases sufficient powder for use one time on the delightful soft, woolly full-sized bright red puff also included.

The rouge and lipstick are bright, vivid red in color—that manufacturer's very newest shade for fall, and the powder of a new shade and the finest suede-like finish.

I am particularly impressed with this new item for its completeness, compactness and generally smart appearance. The dark green color is in keeping with the autumn wood shades and the silk lining the same bright red as the shade of the lipstick and rouge. The outside flap of red leather, loops over a button the same red color as the lining.

You can't imagine the roominess of the little packet, but it has space for a comb, hairpins and even eye-makeup. It's an ideal item for a gift or as a party prize, and the price is so reasonable that you'll be able to afford it for whatever purpose you wish it.

You'll like the new shade of rouge and lipstick so well that you'll perhaps purchase the individual items of the same lovely shade for your dressing table.

They to apply and lasting in color, they make even the most sallow complexion glow with health and aliveness. And the powder has sufficient depth and color to give buoyancy to the countenance.

To accompany this new color combination there is a smart new green eye shadow which gives depth and sparkle to anybody's eyes.

Telephone me for the name of this very lovely pochette or the individual items and I'll tell you where you may see them for yourself. Write me if you do not live in Atlanta, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Wife Loses Against Combined Forces of Husband and Family

By Caroline Chatfield.

I believe it's Elsie Robinson who had several times referred to an old song she used to hear her father sing "Take Not From Any Man His Hope." Of course this is a wicked thing to do: to take hope from a person, unless you can plant another in its place. Yet I'm quite sure that sometimes it is the part of kindness to tell correspondents that they haven't any chance to work out their life's happiness in the way they are trying to work it out.

If there are more hopeless situations than those of young wives whose husbands have dumped them down in the midst of in-laws, where they are treated as redheaded step-children and shown little or no consideration, I don't know what they are. When these young wives have learned to have their in-laws a little of the happy making on their husbands' it isn't possible that the wives can ever again feel warm friendliness for the in-laws nor be contented while they are bound to them, utterly dependent for everything they eat and wear. Nor is it likely they can change the set ups where weak husbands are in the grip of purse holding, strong willed parents. Here's a case in point:

Miss Chatfield: We live in a cottage on my husband's father's place and when I say we are dependent on his parents, I mean it, literally. Not a dollar passes through my hands. They give my husband what they think we should have for necessary expenses and he spends it. If I need a dress I get it only when his mother says I need it. And she buys it for me. When our baby was coming I wanted to do the shopping for his little garments but they wouldn't let me. His mother even bought the diapers.

"It has been this way since the day I was married. My husband obeys his parents as if he were 10 years old and as for me, I'm just a piece of furniture that has to be recovered every now and then. You can imagine how I feel toward them. There must be some way for me to get my rights; but I don't know what it is. Do you?"

Right? Why, my dear girl, that can't be known what you mean by rights. The only money that will pass through your hands will be money that you earn or money that your parents send you. The in-laws have their cloven hoofs on your neck and you must find your compensations in the cottage with your child or in a place of business with a job.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Neglected Teeth Cause Serious Trouble

By Dr. William Brady.

Ponderous volumes on the care of the teeth mention toothache only as a remote effect of neglect. In an epitome on the subject one can't dismiss toothache so lightly. Decay or cavity formation may progress as far as involvement of the pulp in the center of the tooth before the child feels more than tenderness or slight sensitivity to hot or cold liquids or to candy or other sweets. Unconsciously the child favors the sensitive side of the mouth and gets into the habit of chewing on one side of the mouth, which still further predisposes the teeth on the unused side to decay.

Actual toothache means inflammation in the pulp. If the ache becomes throbbing, abscess occurs—suppuration, and destruction of the pulp. The pulp is not only the nerve structure but what is more important the vascular structure whence the tooth is nourished, chiefly.

If a cavity can be seen, packing it lightly with a wisp of cotton saturated with oil of cloves may give relief. If this does not give relief, the dentist may be able to find the opening into the pulp chamber, enlarge it a bit and afford vent to the blood or pus congested or under pressure therein, thus bringing immediate relief.

If abscess develops—commonly called "ulcerated tooth"—the face swells over the damaged tooth and the throbbing pain destroys all sleep or peace until the abscess is drained. The victim may have some fever, with or without chills, if the proper treatment is put off too many hours.

If the abscess "points" on the gum, of course the immediate "lancing" of the "gum boil" is always advisable.

If the suppuration is confined within the pulp chamber or within the tooth socket, relief can be given either by immediate extraction of the tooth or, if the dentist believes the tooth may still serve a useful purpose, by draining the abscess through the root canal or through the pulp chamber. The quaint procedure of ignorant practitioners in the past of some quack today of postponing surgical interference until "the inflammation has gone down" is malpractice. The danger from "ulcerated tooth" ends with drainage of the abscess, however this may be brought about. The damage sometimes, caused by unwarranted delay in surgical treatment has to often been ignorantly or viciously charged to the treatment. Unfortunately the courts of Yankee land share the ignorance of the public about this. A reasonable amount of ignorance may be excusable, but only a veritable fool would suffer "ulcerated tooth" for days and nights when there is a twentieth century dentist within reach.

Aside from the mere pain, there is the certainty that with every hour the trouble is permitted to go unrelieved the damage to the system or to the jaw bone is increasing and so is the danger.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

If I send my daughter to school this year (she is five-years-old) she will be in a class with other children. If I wait until next year she will be in a class all alone. She is strong and healthy. Should I send her now or wait a year? (Mrs. N. J. E.)

Answer—Provided she has been immunized against diphtheria and against smallpox, send her now. Young children derive advantages from earlier association with other children in school. But it would be an unforfeitable negligence to expose her to the possible risk of diphtheria or small pox in any circumstance.

More Than Ever Before.

What has become of those excellent booklets you used to offer correspondents for a dime, on such subjects as Indigestion, Constipation, Anemia, Rheumatism, etc.? Have you gone high hat on us poor folk? (M. C.)

Answer—There are more such booklets in the "Little Lessons" series than ever before: CVD, So You Have Indigestion? Preparing for Maternity, The Last Brady Symphony (keep fit exercises), the BBBBBB Book (baby book), Care of the Feet, Ills Called Rheumatism, Unbidden Guests, V-I-T-E Spells Youth, Blood and Health, Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene. For a copy of any booklet send 10 cents coin and 1-cent stamped envelope bearing your address.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What is the best method of drying the hair after shampooing it at home?

A. After the final rinsing, give it a brisk rub with a towel, rubbing both the hair and the scalp. While the hair is still wet, massage the scalp, parting the hair and pressing the tips of the fingers into the skin. Rub vigorously. If you can rub before the open window or out into the open air, the hair will dry quickly. It is not advisable to sit bareheaded in the hot sun for a long time.

Q. Give directions for making individual bread cases for creamed meat or vegetables.

A. Trim the crusts from ordinary bread and dry quickly, then shape them to muffin tins. Brush with melted butter and brown them in the oven.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, state your address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to The Woman's Quiz, The Constitution, 1013 12th Street, Washington, D. C. For a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here. Don't telephone; be wise as directed.

My Day: None in Our Midst Need Be Hungry

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

SAN FRANCISCO—It was with real sorrow yesterday that I read of the death of Cardinal Mundelein. He was not only a great man in the church, he was a great man in our country. He used his influence to increase the good will and understanding among people of different faiths and races. He had a real concern for those who suffered and a love for young people.

When he came to see the President, if it was possible, I always made it a point to go in and see him, if only for a few minutes, because contact with that kind of personality always gives one a sense of encouragement about human beings. He radiated goodness and you could feel the despair of humanity in his presence. Many of us who are not of his church will long remember him with gratitude for what he was and for what he did for others.

I think he would have approved a publication which has just come to my attention called "The Voices for Human Rights," published by the Committee of Catholics for Human Rights. A strong stand is taken in this paper for tolerance. Instead of hating our neighbors, it urges us to try to understand them. It raises its voice against anti-Semitism and urges tolerance for different races and creeds. This is the kind of paper which will be of great help in these troublous times to keep all bent on co-operating and removing injustices wherever we find them and to alleviate suffering as far as we can.

As the war drags on and the debate in congress opens to decide what our attitude in this country on the neutrality bill shall be, I cannot help hoping that we will remember that there is work at home which has a bearing on the ultimate peace of the world.

We have set ourselves a difficult task here. We are trying to find the answers to the economic problems of today. We have the responsibility of proving that a great democratic nation can do this. We must show that we can find a way of expanding industry, of sharing the benefits of invention, of distributing production, so that even the lowliest may have at least the necessities of life in this land which has before solved problems of production, but not of distribution. This does not mean curtailment of private initiative or of ultimate rewards to those of special abilities or those who wish to strive for material returns. It does mean, however, that we cannot be successful in offering the world something it may desire unless we can prove that.

None in our midst need be homeless or hungry or lack the necessities for a comfortable and satisfactory existence. It is true that it is said, "For ye have the poor always with you." That should not apply to people who are willing and able to work, but to those who, through illness, misfortune, or inability, are unable to look after themselves. To think of future peace is our first responsibility in a war-torn world.

With a Bit of Discipline You Can Correct Sway-Back

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you have a sway back, you don't have just one thing wrong with your figure—you have two. To compensate for the incurve of the hips, you have an outcurve of the tummy.

It's a question as to which comes first, the protruding tummy or the sway back. But fortunately, when you fix one you fix the other and double the improvement in your figure. Specifically, the correction consists in strengthening and retracting the abdominal muscles and in stretching the muscles of the lower back.

Normally, these muscles should hold your body in beautiful alignment. You should sit, stand and walk correctly without having to think about it. If you did that, you would be constantly strengthening and retracting the right positions.

But these muscles can be strengthened in the wrong position—and they are, every time you slump down and sit in the middle of your back, with the tummy pushed out. If slumping is your idea of comfort, it's only because you have consistently strengthened the muscles for slumping. A few minutes of special exercise every day will gradually overcome this inclination and will give you a good posture along with a much better figure.

Start off easy, with a bit of discipline in sitting. . . . Sit on the floor with the legs stretched out, the hips and small of the back tight against the wall. The exercise is simply to sit in this position for two five-minute periods each day. After awhile you should be able to sit in the same position without the wall. Be sure that the tummy muscles are pulled up, the back straight. For a time, shun easy chairs—they tempt you to slump and undo the good of the exercise.

When sway back is pronounced, the muscles are weakened to such an extent that frequent back aches are the rule. Here is an exercise which relieves strain in this area as it strengthens the muscles. Lie on the back on the floor with the knees flexed and the feet on the floor. Clasp the hands over the

New Notrump Play Restricted To Part-Score Situations

By Harold Sharpsteen.

With the duplicate bridge season now in full swing in most sections of the country, tournament players are sharpening their wits and searching for new wrinkles in bidding and playing strategy that might give them even the slightest advantage over their local rivals. The bag of tricks seems almost exhausted for duplicate players, but somebody is always barging forth with some new idea for rubber bridge games.

BABY-FOUR NOTRUMP.
Now it is a "two-three notrump" that operates very similar to the Culbertson four-five notrump, but is restricted to part-score situations only.

It is so simple to recognize and understand, more than a few rubber bridge players may decide to adopt it.

Assume your side has a part-score of 60. You open the bidding one heart with a hand something like:

1 Heart 2 Notrump 3 Notrump

The partnership has established the heart suit. Opener has shown two aces and the king of hearts. Partner has shown the remaining two aces.

Now, if opener rebids four notrump, responder's three notrump, he is asking partner to show Kings or singletons, by bidding the suit in which they are held.

A jump bid of two notrump over a one suit bid, with a part score of 30 may also be employed in the same manner.

Deanna Durbin Pictures Are Accepted in Russia

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.—When Mary Martin leaves Hollywood at the end of this week, she will have exactly two weeks in which to rehearse for the top role in the stage musical comedy, "Hold Your Hats." Miss Martin, who became famous last season on Broadway via the song, "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," is now winding up her star part in Paramount's "Victor Herbert" epic. When she returns to Hollywood, which will probably not be until the spring, she will again be paired with Allan Jones, her current singing partner. Mr. Jones, by the way, is leaving shortly on a three months' concert tour that will take him to all parts of the country.

It has now been definitely decided that "Florian" will be Robert Taylor's next picture. The story has been in preparation for more than a year, and now that it is finally complete, some pressure is being brought on Taylor in hopes of getting him to give up his vacation. If Barbara Stanwyck has anything to say—and she usually says plenty—the picture will have to wait a couple of months longer. Newcomer Laraine Day gets the feminine role opposite Bob Simone. Simon hopes to storm the Hollywood citadel again via the Broadway musical comedy—"The Gibson Girls." . . . Busy time ahead for Joel McCrea. After Cecil B. De Mille's Canadian northwest picture, he reports for the lead in "In Old Virginia," not to be confused with Warner's "Virginia City."

DEANNA DURBIN.

wanted for top spot in "African Intrigue." I wish for once Doug would play something American and modern. . . . Good learning is that of Marjorie Rambeau with Wallace Beery. They will get together for "Twenty Mile Team." . . . RKO-Radio is trying to resign Fred Astaire for one dancing picture a year with Ginger Rogers. I think this is a good idea.

Numerous Ways To Use Glass In the Home

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

The most spectacular new house we've seen in several moons has a basic structure of cement with wide walls of plate glass and of glass brick. Some of the clear glass is tinted slightly and much of the interior glass of the house is colored more deeply. Outside the terrace is screened from the driveway by a garden wall of glass brick which admits light but insures privacy. On the outside of the house the over-hand from the second floor shades 'n' glare that might fall on the glass walls below. All the main rooms on the first floor can be thrown together by sliding glass doors and these rooms in turn can be thrown open to the garden in the same way, throwing the house and yard together in fine weather. Where glass partitions or glass walls are used and privacy is a matter of importance, obscure glass, which admits the light but not any specific objects, is used.

Glass risers on the stair-steps reveal light so that each tread is illuminated. Upstairs the sun deck is closed over the top and open in front and the railing is of plate glass also. In one of the bedrooms a sliding plate glass partition separates the bed half of the room from the rest of the space; thus can you sleep with good ventilation and still have a warm room to dress in.

With Interesting Textures.

The living room has inside walls painted in palest coral pink, outside walls in flesh tinted glass. Draperies are in a white and grey textural cotton, woven in horizontal stripes. These can be drawn over all the glass walls when desired. The floor covering is a grey ribbed textural broadloom. The furniture is in putty tone. A chaise longue with a large sofa covered in turquoise chenille and two barrel chairs in a wine-colored boucle combined with white leather. A pair of open arm chairs in rose beige cotton and a turquoise leather desk chair contribute brilliant color accents to the design of the room. A novelty in the arrangement of the living room is a "flower place" which is a secondary focal point in the arrangement; it was a ledge set against a mirror panel.

Youthful Lines in Button-Front Style

By Barbara Bell.

Imagine how charming this simple frock will look in cherry colored wool, or rich forest green, flashing under your dark coat! And, of course, it's a perfect style for black. The lines are beautifully young, wasp-waisted and flattering. If you're inexperienced at sewing, this is a fine pattern to start on, because it's so easy. It will convince you of the pleasure and profit of sewing your own! Just follow the step-by-step sew chart.

For this design, 1732-B, thin wool, flat crepe or jewel-tone velveteen are smart materials, and you can make it with long or short sleeves.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1732-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22 and 24. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4-4 yards of 39-inch material without nap, for long or short sleeves. 1-7-8 yards of trimming.

Special extra! Send today for your new Fall Pattern Book with a stunning selection of a hundred perfect patterns for all shapes and sizes. Forty-Three Atlantans Pledged By State University Sororities*By Sally Forth.*

THE social whirl prevailing on the University of Georgia campus throughout rush week has subsided, and today Marie Richardson, of this city, president of the Women's Panhellenic Council, announces that 43 Atlanta co-eds have been pledged to the various sororities there.

Chi Omega pledges from Atlanta are Shirley Hutchinson, Dorothy See and Gladys Randall. Jessie Sutton, of Decatur, also boasts a Chi Omega pledge pin.

Delta Delta Delta's new Atlanta pledges are Kathryn Whitney, Mary Sells, Sara Patterson, Harriett Emerson, Betty Hodges and Grason Hungerford.

Wearing Alpha Delta Pi pledge pins are Gray Yarborough, Jane Geary and Olive Bell Davis. A. D. Pi pledges from Decatur are Dorothy Rose, Frances Thomas, Louise Stockdale and Marie Steele.

Kappa Alpha Thetas closed their rushing activities by pledging Jane Ball, Elise Hunter, Lillabel Hill and Shirley Jones, all of this city.

Kappa Deltas pledged Sara Carpenter, Jean Evans, Carol Lasher and Betty Morris.

Phi Mu rushees from Atlanta converted into pledges are Joy O'Brien, Emily Mitchell and Peggy Crosswell.

Martha Mauldin, Katherine Wing, Grace Moore and Sarah Burns complete the pledge ranks of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, while Virginia Wallin, Anne Peake, Mary Alice Roane and Grace Watson are the Atlantans pledged by Alpha Chi Omega.

Betty Harrison, of Decatur, is also a popular pledge of this sorority. Alpha Omicron Psi pledged Emily Arnett, Cordelia Slater, Martha Frances Smith, Sally Lemon and Marcia Cornwall, all of this city.

Grace Lippman and Sylvia May Bock pledged Delta Phi Epsilon. Pi Beta Phi pledges include Mary Arta Henry, Marie Sheffield, Pauline McCallahan, Reba Jo Sellers, Jean Wilkes and Betty Braungart.

THE fresh young voices of the junior choir of All Saints Episcopal church will soon be matched by fresh new vestments, as a result of proceeds from the magic show to be sponsored tomorrow at the parish house.

There will be a variety of entertainment, including pony rides, grab bags, games and entertainment booths. Mrs. Edith Heidt is the junior choir director and according to sub-rosa accounts of the surprises she has in store for those who will attend, the affair will be one of the most interesting ever staged at the church.

QUEEN ELIZABETH, who recently entered her fortieth year, became much slimmer on her American tour. In order to keep fit with so much train travel, she took a modified slimming diet, consisting largely of plenty of salads, green vegetables and fresh fruit.

Her slimmness becomes her, so she is continuing to order light menus at Buckingham Palace and in Scotland. Five courses instead of six are served for dinner, and sweets have to contain fruit in some forms. Peach melba is one of the Queen's favorite dishes.

In Scotland, Her Majesty is resisting the allure of the large Scots tea, with its plentiful display of scones and cakes.

Queen Elizabeth never allows herself to become sunburned—hence her parasols—preferring to keep her natural milk-and-roses complexion, which is enhanced only by the lightest touches of rouge and lipstick.

Plans were completed for the lecture series for the Atlanta Art Association and the Sunday afternoon hobby talks held at the High Museum of Art.

Will She Be First Deb to Wed?By Alice Denton Jennings

MISS NANCY CALHOUN.

Charming Nancy Calhoun, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, and recently elected treasurer of the 1939-40 Atlanta Debutantes Club, has the type of hand any artist would delight to paint. Slender and artistic, the hand reveals its owner is a lover of the beautiful in all forms, and one who has a deep and sincere appreciation for all fine things. It is the type influenced by the beautiful in every phase of life, combined with a practical mind and excellent reasoning powers—a remarkable combination.

The well developed thumb, rounded index finger, indicates sympathy, tact, and understanding. The angle at which the thumb joins the palm bespeaks one who has an unusually keen sense of justice, and the ability to overcome any obstacle that may be encountered.

The evenly developed surface of the palm indicates a well rounded personality, a sense of humor, generosity and intuition.

The long, well developed line of fate becomes the promise of an unusually successful life.

Peering into the future, Nancy's hand shows a well marked line of marriage close to the heart line. It would not be surprising if Nancy's were not one of the first of this year's buds to trod the orange blossom trail.

Monday Mrs. Jennings will analyze the hand of another debutante exclusively for The Constitution.

Miss Millett To Wed Whiteford Mays Jr.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Willard Millett, of New York and Greens Farms, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriet Coleman Millett, to Whiteford Smythe Mays Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Whiteford Smythe Mays, of Bronxville, N. Y., and Coral Gables, Fla.

Miss Millett attended the Spence School, was graduated from the Porter School and is studying at the Art Students League in New York. She is a direct descendant of Samuel Appleton, who settled in Ipswich, Mass., in 1635.

Mr. Mays is a graduate of Dartmouth College, where he was elected to Psi Upsilon and Cactus and Gauntlet. He is a member of the Squadron A Association, New York, and is associated with W. S. Mays & Co.

Mr. Mays is a direct descendant of the Rev. William Mays who settled in Jamestown, Va., in 1611. His parents are former residents of Atlanta, Ga., his mother being the former Miss Josephine Smith.

Their wedding was a prominent event in Atlanta society in the winter of 1916, at which time Mr. Mays was an official of the Royal Insurance Company.

DeKalb Women Voters Will Meet Today.

Mrs. Z. W. Jones, chairman of the Department of Legal Status of Women in the DeKalb League of Women Voters invites those interested to take part in a discussion of the rights and privileges that women enjoy as citizens of Georgia, at the meeting to be held at the DeKalb court house, Decatur, at 3 o'clock today. Mrs. Marvin Medlock, legislative chairman for Georgia Federation, will lead the discussion.

Mrs. Wellington Stevens, president of the league and chairman of government and its operation, requests that league members co-operate in the celebration of October 12, as New Citizens Day and that they bring to the meeting names of all in their neighborhood who will become of age during 1939.

Miss Laura Peeples Will Wed Mr. Rimer at Ceremony Today

Centering the interest of a host of friends is the announcement of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Laura McCord Peeples, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woods Peeples, to James Roland Rimer, which is scheduled for 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The ceremony takes place at the East Pace's Ferry road residence of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brown, brother and sister of the bride-elect, and will be followed by an informal reception for only members of the two families.

Miss Peeples and Mr. Rimer will be unattended, and Dr. William V. Gardner, of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. The bride-elect will be gowned in a handsome Tunis blue velvet model fashioned along becoming princess lines and offset by a slight bustle effect. Her hat, a halo style, will match her dress and her flowers will be a shoulder cluster of tea roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will use quantities of white and yellow chrysanthemums throughout the home as the decorations for the ceremony and reception. Mr. Rimer, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rimer, and his bride leave this evening for their wedding trip to an unannounced destination and upon their return they will reside on Huntington road.

Mason-Shaw Plans Announced Today

Of interest is the announcement made today of the wedding plans of Miss Edna Louise Mason and John Thomas Shaw, whose engagement was recently announced and whose marriage takes place at the Gordon Street Baptist church on October 22.

Dr. Thomas Harvey, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony at 4 o'clock in the presence of relatives and friends of the young couple. A musical program will be presented by Mrs. L. A. Dean Jr., and Miss Myrtle Belle Durham.

Acting as ushers will be W. Edward Howell and Edward R. Dutton, and Mrs. Carl Southerland, sister of the groom-elect, will be matron of honor and Miss Bobbie Lange will be maid of honor.

Wallace Mundy, of Raleigh, N. C., will give Miss Mason in marriage and Barbara Ann Allen will be flower girl and the ring bearer will be Claude Brooks Young, cousin of the bride-elect.

Mrs. Ottley and Mrs. Black Honored As Outstanding Georgia Clubwomen

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD, editor of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

When executive board members of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs met here yesterday at the Henry Grady Hotel, Mrs. John K. Ottley was voted as the Georgia clubwoman having the longest and most outstanding record of leadership in club, county, district and state federated with General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The name of Mrs. Nellie Peters Black was voted as the pioneer Georgia clubwoman with the longest and continuous service in a club or a federation which is federated with General Federation, and who is not living at present. Tribute will be paid these women when General Federation celebrates the golden anniversary in 1940 in Atlantic City, N. J.

President's Recommendations. Mrs. Albert M. Hill, of Greenville, state president, presided at the session, and recommended that clubwomen give their assistance and influence toward making October 12, a successful and great citizenship day. She recommended legislative programs wherein clubwomen can study and familiarize themselves with bills coming before the legislature while in session. Another concerns co-operation with the state department to strengthen state educational programs. Another deals with moral rearmament to uphold moral standards of Americans.

A recommendation from the executive committee includes a cash award of $25 to the district bringing the greatest number of clubs into the federation. Commendation was given the acceptance of the project offered by the fine arts department to present 13 broadcasts over WSB, and to give 13 different awards to listeners writing the best essays notebooks on the subject.

Composing the executive committee are Mesdames Albert M. Hill, E. M. Bailey, John W. Jenkins, C. W. Henry, J. O. Braselton, Ralph Butler, Howard McCall, J. W. Gholston, H. B. Ritchie, A. B. Conger, John D. Evans, S. M. Inman, and A. P. Brantley.

Officers making reports were: Mesdames Albert M. Hill, E. M. Bailey, John W. Jenkins, Clifford Smith, John O. Braselton, Howard McCall, Ralph Butler, and Harvie Jordan, executive secretary.

District presidents reporting were: Mesdames C. E. Reeves, G. A. McArthur, Maxwell Murray, C. J. Killete, John D. Evans, Carl K. Nelson, W. J. Wingate, Mrs. Alice Longino represented the eighth district.

Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, recording secretary of General Federation and Mrs. Roland Daniel of Columbus, family relations chairman for General Federation brought messages from the mother organization. Mrs. Ralph Butler, director for Georgia in General Federation, requested clubwomen to present one program during the year on General Federation, in which to bring out the accomplishments of the organization and rededicate themselves to meeting the needs of today.

Chairman Report. Mrs. J. W. Mobley emphasized the issuance of the special edition of the Lavonia Times on October 27, concerning the history of library work in Georgia. Henry McIntosh spoke on "Indian Welfare," of which she is state chairman. Mrs. S. V. Sanford, student aid chairman, stated that every girl meeting requirements has been aided in gaining an education. Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, Ella F. White endowment fund chairman, read a list of clubs contributing thus far to the fund. Mrs. H. A. Watts presented an official communication from Tallulah Falls board of trustees, in reference to the 30th anniversary with suggestions that 1939-40 be fittingly observed by clubwomen in recognition of the birthday of the school owned and operated by Georgia Federation.

Mrs. Ober Warthen stressed adult education through extension courses at Georgia University. Mrs. J. C. Rogers, education chairman, stated that 60 new gift scholarships have been given through state colleges, bringing the total up to 72 gift scholarships made to Georgia Federation. Mrs. L. S. Moody, safety in the home chairman, stressed fire prevention programs in club meetings. Mrs. A. C. Maxwell, fine arts chairman, introduced Mrs. E. W. More as chairman of awards for the fine arts radio broadcasts, and Mrs. Maxwell read the list of wonderful awards which will be published on the official club page of Georgia Federation, published every Sunday for over 40 years in the Atlanta Constitution.

Mrs. John D. Evans announced the first broadcast comes next Tuesday and continues every Tuesday thereafter for 13 weeks. Mrs. W. F. Melton urged the placing the name of Sidney Lanier, the Georgia poet, in the Hall of Fame in New York city. Mrs. H. I. Shingler, music chairman, urged the importance of featuring programs on Georgia composers.

Mrs. John B. Clark, international relations chairman, asked clubwomen to study the foreign policy of the United States.

Mrs. H. J. Whitehead, junior chairman, stressed the Stewart Brown scholarship for Tallulah as the objective of junior club work. Mrs. R. C. Fryer Jr., co-chairman, explained the staging of an essay contest to inspire junior clubwomen.

Federation past presidents introduced were Mesdames J. E. Hays, A. P. Brantley, S. V. Sanford, W. Gholston, A. B. Conger and H. B. Ritchie.

ATLANTA PIONEER RETURNS FOR VISIT

Herbert H. (Dad) Brown is Veritable Storehouse of City's Early History.

Herbert H. (Dad) Brown, who was living in Atlanta when Sherman stormed the town, is back on a visit looking for his old friends with whom to swap stories.

The 82-year-old retired bank and brokerage official is a veritable storehouse of Atlanta history, recalling vividly the invasion of Atlanta, the first street car line and many of the leading citizens of that day among whom was Clark Howell, great-grandfather of Major Clark Howell, present editor and publisher of The Constitution.

Mr. Brown found difficulty in getting in touch with his few old friends who are still alive. He asked that they call him at the home of his nephew, Alderman Frank Reynolds, 283 Tenth street, N. E. He intends to remain in Atlanta about a week before returning to his home in Washington where daily he goes to his old desk though the brokerage firm retired him 10 years ago.

During the filming of "Gone With the Wind," friends tried to get Mr. Brown to go to Hollywood because he remembered the old city so well. Among his favorite stories is one in which he names the real life counterparts to the characters in Margaret Mitchell's book.

'FIFTH AVENUE GIRL' IN LAST APPEARANCE

Tag Her for $5 Today; Two Did Yesterday; Officer Gets a Surprise.

Today is the last day for you mystery-girl hunters. The "Fifth Avenue Girl" makes her last appearance in the downtown area of Atlanta today. That is, Atlanta's "Fifth Avenue Girl," Ginger Rogers is at the Fox theater as a "Fifth Avenue Girl," too.

Don't let her various costumes lead you astray. It's the same girl, but she appears in different outfits just to fool you.

Yesterday J. C. Smith Jr., of 115 Los Angeles drive, put his copy of The Constitution in his pocket. "Just in case," he said, and Lady Luck smiled on him. He recognized the beautiful blonde "Fifth Avenue Girl" at 100 yards. He ran down the street and tagged her. "You look so stylish," he added to his statement. "You're the 'Fifth Avenue Girl.'" This, as you know, is the proper thing to say to the elusive blonde, provided you can catch her.

The officer on the corner of Ellis and Peachtree got a real surprise. W. L. Martin, of 748 Delmar avenue, who is in the produce business, gets off work during the morning. For two days he has been standing at that corner trying to spot Miss X, the "Fifth Avenue Girl." The officer laughed and told him he didn't have a chance. But, sure enough, he was successful, for yesterday, when he asked Miss X if she was the "Fifth Avenue Girl" and she said yes, he gave a loud war-whoop and ran gleefully over to the officer, waving his $5 prize.

Be on the lookout for the "Fifth Avenue Girl" last appearance today. And have your copy of The Constitution handy.

BIRMINGHAM TO BOOST STEEL OUTPUT RATE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 5.—(P)—Continued heavy demand for steel will boost the output in this district to 90 per cent of capacity next week, with further increases likely before the end of the month.

Industrial sources forecast that production would reach capacity before the end of the current quarter. Pig iron production already is at 100 per cent.

Next week's production increase will occur at Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company's Fairfield works, largest steel plant in the south.

Sigma Pi of Emory To Give Hayride.

Psi Chapter of Sigma Pi at Emory University will entertain this evening at a hayride and dance. Members, pledges, alumni and their dates will meet at the chapter house at 1288 South Oxford road, from where trucks will carry them to Spring Lake Farm, the country home of John L. Harper. Later in the evening the gathering will return to the chapter house for dancing.

Press Club Plans Tea For Writer

Among affairs planned for next week will be the tea to be given on Wednesday at Davidson's by members of the Atlanta Woman's Press Club for Mrs. Mildred Seydell, Atlanta writer, whose book, "Chins Up," is just off the press.

Receiving the 500 guests invited will be Mrs. Angus Perkerson, president of the club, and other officers, including Mrs. Robert Hunt, Miss Edith Hills and Miss Annie Lou Hardy.

Mrs. John M. Slaton and Mrs. Hugh Richardson will preside at the tea table and members of the Press Club, which is composed of local newspaper women, will assist in entertaining.

Additional Parties For Miss Holsenbeck

Miss Bryant Holsenbeck, popular bride-elect, continues to be honored at social affairs.

Misses Jane Franklin and Charlotte Galbraith will entertain on Sunday at a tea at 4:30 o'clock at East Lake Country Club for the bride-elect.

Miss Patsy McCann and Miss Caroline Reed will be hostesses Monday evening at a bridge party and linen shower at the former's home on Fairview road, guests to arrive at 7:30 o'clock.

Invited are Misses Frances Bone, Betty Hatcher, Marian Walker, Mary Luetje, Lillian Carpenter, Martha Boyle, Helen Groover, Mildred Rand, Frances Boatwright, Helen Klugh, Poebie Jane Hopper, Betty Taylor, Louise Sims, Katherine King and the honoree guest.

Assisting in entertaining will be the hostess's mother, Mrs. A. E. McCann.

Next Wednesday Miss Margaret Knott will entertain at a luncheon at her home in Marietta, honoring Miss Holsenbeck.

Local No. 1.

Executive board of International Woman's Auxiliary, International Association of Fire-Fighters, Local No. 1, meets today at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. W. Dodd, 1695 Beecher street, S. W.

LEGACY OF LOVE

Rita's Phone Rings and She Hears The Voice of the Masquerade Clown

By KATHRN BEMIS.

INSTALLMENT III

It was on the tip of her tongue to ask why he had married a woman with so much money if he didn't value it highly. But there was no use making this man dislike her any more than he already did; and his every move indicated that he disliked her, for some unaccountable reason, as much as she did him.

Wilnot turned away. "You'd better cable your mother about you and Preston—or better still, write her. I haven't the heart to tell her—after the interest she's taken in buying your trousseau in Paris."

"Oh, I'll cable! I'll tell her I don't need a trousseau! And furthermore, if I ever should, I'll buy it myself! I'm tired of being treated like a child! I'm tired and sick of everything!" Rita fumed, tears rolling down her cheeks.

As Wilnot disappeared the telephone on the little table beside the infuriated Rita began ringing. Impatiently she snatched the white ivory receiver from its cradle.

"Hello," she said thickly. "Hello, yourself. Remember me? Rustling bushes beneath romantic lanterns—clown appearing, scent of orange blossoms. Say—what do orange blossoms remind you of?"

She clutched the telephone stand with a shaking hand. Who and what was this persistent man? Why did the mere sound of his voice fill her with heady excitement? What sort of game was he playing? Should she be afraid of him?

Rita laughed a little harshly. She burst out, "So—it's you—the clown!" "Right," he confessed readily enough. "Isn't it a coincidence? You take up your receiver—and here I am on the other end of the line flinging out advice. Do stop crying. Your pretty eyes will swell—and your nose—that cute little nose..."

"Why, you—you..." "Tush! Not so loud! Yes, I looked through your window in passing. If you must cry, why not drop the blinds?"

"You've snooped again! You've no right! I'll have it stopped! I'll send the butler out to look for you—with a gun!"

His laugh was gay insolence. "Am I scared?" was his maddening retort. She slammed down the receiver, her heart pounding ridiculously. Why should that voice do such unaccountable things to her? Why should she hesitate to have the man caught, locked up? He was a regular Peeping Tom, a regular... The telephone broke into this dynamic chain of thought. It rang too insistently to be ignored.

She answered it again only to hear once more the magnetic voice of the clown. This was too much. She would put the man in his place.

"Hasn't it occurred to you that we've never been properly introduced? The way you persist in annoying me..."

"Come now, my proud beauty—I'm no Simon Legree. Can you suggest how a man outside your social circle could maneuver an introduction? Have a heart, darling."

Her laugh came out spontaneously. "You make it sound—so convincing. I'm afraid you're a dangerous man."

But she was thinking, "A man outside my own stuffy circle might be regular—not an egotistical stuffed shirt."

"I am dangerous, Miss Rhodes—and how!"

The hint of adventure in this intrigued her. Anyway, it was different from anything that had ever happened to her before.

"Well, then—that being the case..."

"You're going out with me tomorrow night," he blandly informed her. "I'll call for you—shall we make it 8 o'clock?"

"You're preposterous! I have other engagements for tomorrow night—three of them, in fact." She suddenly sounded like the society girl exploited in the rotogravures. "I'll thank you not to bother me again!"

She replaced the receiver quickly, but with a certain reluctance. Then she tried to make herself behave. Of course, she couldn't take a chance with a stranger—he might be out to kidnap her. She wondered, with a little quickening of the pulses, if it wouldn't be a thrilling experience to be kidnapped by so aggressive a man. He appeared to have more courage than the men who couldn't marry her for some vague reason or other. Was it entirely because she could not love them? Love? Fiddlesticks! She was through with love.

By morning she was still unable to throw off the feeling of having missed something she shouldn't, but later on this was shaken from her mind by a threatening family upheaval. Wilnot had received a letter from a Paris attorney informing him that Delores was divorcing him. Wilnot was distracted, and Rita was inclined to feel sorry for him. After all, Delores was his wife, even if not a devoted one, and he now was acting as if he could never give her up.

For the first time since Rita had known Wilnot, she began to believe that he really loved Delores, perhaps had not married her for her social and financial position. But if he were fretting about money, it was unnecessary, as he should know. Once Delores made up her mind to be off with the old love and on with the new, Rita knew no monetary consideration would stand in her way. She would settle a fairly large sum on Wilnot if he made things too difficult.

The whole business made Rita sick with chagrin. She wished she were less sensitive, but she couldn't seem to get accustomed to airing the family skeletons ever so often. If only Delores could get the same viewpoint! But Delores was just herself and nothing else. Rita supposed, would ever change her. She and Delores were supplying the reporters with plenty of colorful copy these days. What wouldn't they do to the love lives of mother and daughter! It made her cheeks burn to think of it.

She could hear Wilnot bustling about his rooms at the end of the upper hall, hear him tersely ordering his man Dillon not to forget this and that. Wilnot was packing to go to affect a reconciliation with Delores. He was leaving on the next plane for New York, sailing on the first boat for Paris. Rita had found it next to impossible to talk to him about much else. He was acting like a wild man.

Rita felt about as depressed as she ever had, now that she was to be left alone with the servants. There had been times in the past when such unbounded freedom would have been a perfect lark; but now, for some unknown reason, she felt apprehensive.

The taut pale Wilnot finally bade her a curt good-bye, then quickly left the house with Dillon. Rita sat by her sitting-room window, watching the big black limousine whirl out of the drive, thinking over Wilnot's unusual behavior. If she could be sure that Wilnot was violently in love with her mother, his agitation would fit in nicely with his present actions. But she could not believe this. She had an uneasy feeling that there was something else behind all this haste of his to get away, and it worried her.

Suddenly, the formality of this big old house surrounded by acres of avocado, lemon, orange and fig trees, by rose gardens, glass palms, peepers and sycamores, stifled her. She must get away!

She would go to Seebreeze, the Wilnot Greens' house at Malibu; she would let huge waves pound and roar against the tumult in her heart. Perhaps out there she could find a certain kind of peace. She had always loved the ocean and generally during the season the spacious beach house was open and filled with gay guests. But this year Wilnot had preferred to stay in town, and Rita had pretended to like it. Wilnot did not go in for bathing in cool water, for high wind and fresh salt air. Rita often wondered if he was afraid the clean ocean breeze would sweep aside some of his artificiality, expose his downright meanness underneath.

The servants were delighted to be going to the beach and within a few hours Rita began to share some of their enthusiasm. When maid Lennie returned late that afternoon, Rita set her to packing slacks and shorts, bathing suits, beach robes, sweaters and cardigans. She was taking few formal clothes; she was determined to have little or no company at the beach. She would be alone, time reading, painting and communing with herself—perhaps enjoy being sorry for herself a few weeks.

She scarcely touched the porterhouse steak and mushrooms, the shoestring potatoes, caluso salad and chocolate cream pie brought by Dobbs to her room by sitting alone tonight in the somber shadows of the family dining room.

Dobbs noted her lack of appetite when removing the remains of the dinner she had scarcely touched. With the privilege won by fifteen years of service, he suggested, "I'll tell Minnie to plan a tempting breakfast for you, Miss Rita."

Minnie, his wife, was housekeeper in this establishment and managed the servants with rare skill and determination, even on occasions mothering Rita with comforting tact.

"Thank you, Dobbs," Rita said, smiling faintly. But her world was all wrong. An odd premonition of calamity persisted; she could not shake it off.

But Dobbs had barely left the room when Rita returned to announce, "Your car is waiting, Miss Rita."

"My car? I didn't order it brought around!"

"Beg pardon, Miss—but Stanton, the new chauffeur, said to tell you he was out here waiting."

"That's odd. I can't imagine—oh well, I'll see this Stanton."

"Stanton, Miss Rita."

She straightened her rose satin coat over her rose satin slacks, and went quickly downstairs. Only when she reached the front door was she conscious of the ridiculous gold satin mules on her feet.

CHINESE REPULSE INVADERS IN FIRST BIG DRIVE OF YEAR

Japanese Suffer Heavy Losses in Major Offensive Against Changsha; Retreat Across Mi River

HONGKONG, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A definite Japanese setback with heavy losses appeared today to be the result of Japan's first major military offensive against China in nearly a year.

Chinese reported that a co-ordinated Japanese campaign aimed at Changsha, capital of Hunan province, had been repulsed and that the Japanese were falling back across the Mi river, 40 miles north of the city.

A Japanese offensive was launched a few days after Japan and Soviet Russia reached a truce September 16 in hostilities along the frontier between Manchoukuo and Outer Mongolia. Designed to strike a severe blow at Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces, the drive was the first important military action in China since Hankow was taken October 25, 1938.

Estimates of the number of men involved ran as high as 500,000.

A Japanese air raid on Chungking, China's temporary capital, meanwhile, was turned back to night by intense fire from anti-aircraft batteries. The raiders dropped most of their bombs on the city's outskirts, apparently without serious damage.

A Chinese spokesman asserted the Hunan campaign had cost Japan 10,300 dead in almost three weeks of fighting.

(In Shanghai Japanese sources declared yesterday that 25,000 Chinese had been killed in Hunan but independent sources said estimates on both sides seemed excessive.)

COMMUNITY FUND SPEAKERS CHOSEN

62 Prominent Atlantans Have Volunteered for Drive to Begin Monday.

Speakers Bureau of the Atlanta Community Fund announced its speakers for the coming drive yesterday at the first meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room. Edgar Neely Jr. presided. Dick Rich, Cherry Emerson and Dr. Herman Turner explained fundamentals on which the speakers are to base their talks.

Sixty-two prominent Atlantans have volunteered for the campaign which will begin Monday and last until November 18. The speakers will be heard on the radio and at various civic meetings, business clubs and garden clubs during the campaign.

Those who compose the Speakers Bureau for this year are:

DIES GROUP HEARS EX-BUND MEMBER

Told German Ships Brought Nazi Propaganda to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Dies committee heard testimony today that for a time in 1936 every German boat that docked at Los Angeles harbor brought communications and literature from Nazi headquarters in Germany for officials of the German-American Bund in Los Angeles.

Neal Howard Ness, who said he was a former Bund member, asserted that Herman Schwinn, Bund leader known as the "Fuehrer of the West," never missed a ship that came in.

Earlier in 1936, the witness testified, the captain of each ship and Schwinn would exchange material, some of it in sealed envelopes. Later, he said, Schwinn conferred privately with a man known as a national Socialist party "political leader" who was placed on each boat to make certain that crew members were loyal Nazis.

Thieves Start Stealing in Macon To Make Luggage Haul in Atlanta

Petty Crime Wave Nets All Kinds of Loot From Ice Cream Cups and Candy to Rocking Chairs and Pants; Radio Taken at Fair.

Thieves went far afield to prepare themselves for an Atlanta robbery, according to reports filed at police headquarters here yesterday, stealing in Macon a pocketbook containing baggage checks later used to obtain the luggage of an Atlanta woman when it reached the city.

Mrs. Ernest Norris, of 1099 Hollywood road, told police that when she was in Macon Wednesday some one stole her pocketbook containing checks for three pieces of luggage and her railroad ticket. When she arrived in Atlanta and inquired for her luggage she found it had been claimed. She valued it at $200.

Another victim of luggage thieves was W. H. Anderson, of Newport Richey, Fla., who reported the loss of a suitcase and contents valued at $55, which he said was stolen from the waiting room of a downtown railroad terminal.

Steal Rocking Chairs. Petty larcenists were active in other incidents reported to police, their "loot" ranging from 209 ice cream cups to two rocking chairs.

The management of the Lenox Theater, at 405 Mitchell street, S. W., reported the theft of the ice cream cups together with 49 pieces of five-cent candy, the value of the articles being placed at $12.90, while the rocking chairs, valued at $5, were stolen from the porch at the home of Ruby Zachm, 199 Hunter street, S. E.

Charlie Stenson, of 386 Moreland avenue, N. E., reported the loss of his bicycle, valued at $24, which he said was stolen from Auburn avenue and Fort street, while a similar report was filed by Johnnie Marston, 48 Weyman street, who said his bicycle was taken from Whitehall and Alabama streets. The bike was valued at $35 dollars.

Booth Raided at Fair. Theft of a coat and two pairs of pants was claimed by Lester Kellogg, of 123 Courtland street, who valued the articles at $26.50, while Mrs. Lillian Dupre, of a downtown hotel, told police that someone took a pair of glasses worth $22 from her room.

Joe Dodd, of 573 Rosalie street,

S. W., reported the theft from his automobile while it was parked at the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mill of a tire, tube and wheel worth $15.

King Hardware Company claimed that someone had taken a radio valued at $19 from a booth at the Southeastern Fair grounds.

Police captured an automobile and 31 gallons of non-tax-paid whisky at 422 Buchanan street after a brief chase which started at Fort street and continued over Forrest avenue, Piedmont and Currier before the driver ran his car over an embankment on Buchanan street and escaped.

New 'Miracle' Drug Halves Mortality From Pneumonia

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Mellon institute disclosed today it plans nationwide distribution in clinical quantities of a third, powerful new "miracle" drug which in tests at Mercy hospital here has slashed the pneumonia mortality rate in half.

Dr. Mark M. Bracken, fellow in pneumonia research, described the chemical—hydroxyethylapocupreine—to members of the Pennsylvania Medical society in convention here and said he found it equal in effectiveness to the two drugs recently placed in use, sulfapyridine and sulfanilamide.

He said the shipments will be made to five or six clinics in various parts of the country for further tests of its efficiency under a variety of experimental conditions.

Dr. W. W. G. MacLachlan, physician-in-chief at Mercy hospital, described the drug as a derivative of quinine which is administered either through injection into the blood stream or by the mouth. In its ordinary form it is a white powder which Mellon institute scientists have been packing in transparent gelatin capsules.

Dr. MacLachlan said hydroxyethylapocupreine has several advantages over the two other "miracle drugs," whose administration frequently is followed by nausea, vomiting, drug fever, dermatitis, acute hemolytic anemia and other symptoms.

PRESIDENT TO INSPECT HIS CHRISTMAS TREES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt decided today to take the week end off and go to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., to look over prospects for selling some Christmas trees from the 1,200-acre family estate.

A drought which seared the Hudson valley this summer, presidential aides said, killed about 25,000 of the 30,000 trees set out on the Roosevelt estate this spring, and more than 4,000 of those planted earlier. They said the President planned to check his planting and cutting charts with New York State Forestry officials.

The United States grows nearly one-third of its sugar supply, imports most of the rest from Cuba and the Philippines.

A physician said this third drug produced "very few" toxic signs.

last year, the Yankees didn't need all of his elegant elbowing today. They played a strictly Yankee type of ball game at the plate today, put on one quick, wrecking display of their batting power at the expense of heroic Bucky Walters, the National League's leading winner this year, and then saved most of their efforts for what turned out to be a vain attempt at saving Pearson's no-hitter.

The bombing department of this club, which ranks with the greatest of all time, broke loose in the third inning and before the smoke cleared, the Yankees were off and running with three runs and the ball game.

Dahlgren opened the chapter with his second two-bagger of the series, a ground rule hit which bounced into the lower left field boxes. Pearson did as expected, laying down a neat sacrifice bunt. Then, after Frankie Crosetti grounded to short for the second out, sending Dahlgren home, the fireworks were set off.

Four Straight Hits.

Red Rolfe's fly ball fell safely between Harry Craft and Ival Goodman in short right center for a single. Charley Keller, whose triple in the ninth yesterday started the winning rally, shot a high fly to the left field corner, which bounced off Berger's glove for a

L. S. U. FOOTBALL SQUAD TAKES LIMBERING-UP EXERCISES AT CANDLER FIELD

a short stay the L. S. U. squad left for Boston and then to Worcester, Mass., to play Holy Cross Saturday. Coach Bernie Moore is shown near the entrance of the plane. Athletic Director T. P. Heard is next to him. The Bengals lost to Ole Miss last Saturday.

Hovious' Timing Perfect, Declares Bernie Moore

L. S. U. Pauses Here on Longest Air Trip Taken by Southern Eleven.

By TOM McRAE.

Thirty-seven L. S. U. football players, each eating a big apple, alighted from two planes yesterday at Candler field, completing the first lap of their trip to Worcester, Mass., which will be the longest flight a southern grid squad has ever made.

The Tigers play Holy Cross Saturday in Worcester.

Coach Bernie Moore said this about the game: "It'll be a good tough game, I think. I believe we are too strong for them to beat us badly. Holy Cross beat Manhattan rather badly last Saturday but Manhattan does not have a good team."

GOOD AGAINST OLE MISS

He said his boys played good ball against Ole Miss Saturday night. Ole Miss, incidentally, is the only other southern team that has traveled by air. He paid little Junior Hovious, the Rebel sophomore back, quite a compliment. "Hovious is on fast but he has remarkable timing and keeps his balance exceptionally well. He runs a lot like Cafego."

CUBS DEFEATED BY WHITE SOX

Ted Lyons Gives 5 Hits in 9-2 Win; Series Even.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Five-hit pitching by the veteran Ted Lyons and an attack which produced 13 hits gave the White Sox a 9-2 victory today over the Cubs and squared the 23d city championship series between the American and National league rivals at one victory each.

The White Sox, avenging the 10-9 licking they took last night from the National leaguers, scored four runs in the first two innings and were never in danger as the 38-year-old Lyons easily held the Cub batters in check. Both Cub runs were produced on home runs by Glen Russell, young first baseman. He drove the ball into the left-field stands in the third and in the fifth inning lashed a terrific 420-foot smash into the left-center field seats.

The White Sox scored in the first inning on a homer by Joe Kuhel, one of three hits he had during the afternoon, and added three more runs in the second as Walker, Rosenthal, Lyons and Kuhel hit safely. Singles by Rosenthal and Lyons and a triple by Tresh accounted for two more Sox runs in the fourth.

In the seventh, the American leaguers collected their final three runs on a walk, a double by Appling and a homer by Walker.

Ol' Dizzy Dean, making his first appearance on the mound since mid-September, pitched the final inning for the Cubs in a style reminiscent of his best days. He fanned the first batter, Tresh, saw Lyons drop a short single in left field, then struck out Bejma and Kuhel. Charley Root, charged with the defeat, and Vance Page, preceded Dean on the Cub hill.

The teams tomorrow will move to Wrigley field, home of the Cubs, for the third game of the four-out-of-seven series.

EN ROUTE TO SOUTH BEND, IND., WITH GEORGIA TECH, Oct. 5.—A clever attacking force can make up for certain other deficiencies in football. For instance, the clever attacking force may get the jump; may score first. Immediately that changes things for the opposing team which may have greater power and more assets. The burden is shifted. The scoring team can afford to bring stout kicking into play and put the accent on defense.

This may happen Saturday at South Bend. A lot has been written about the smartness of Notre Dame teams, and no doubt it's true. The Fighting Irish make a lot of their breaks and know what to do with them. They were opportunists against Tech last year.

The game of last year swung on the breaks. Tech fumbled away a second scoring chance. Notre Dame had two chances and made both of them good.

The Tech team of last year baffled Notre Dame with the smart execution of trick plays. The Tech team of this year is a smarter, cleverer team on offense. The variety of plays is greater.

Tech has certain scoring plays that Notre Dame may not be able to stop. I would not, in the weakest moment, compare the Irish with the Tech "B" team.

But it is a striking thing, nevertheless, that the Tech "B" team, having looked at the plays for more than three weeks, still found it difficult to follow the ball in the last scrimmage.

Conceivably, the Irish, for all their smartness, might be caught by surprise. And they might continually find plays unfolding in front of them that look like one thing and turn out to be another.

The Jacket offense is reminiscent of the old shell game. You would swear the pea was under the middle pod, but it isn't.

Tech's trick plays which originate from punt formation are more baffling than somewhat for the reason that any one of four players can—and might—kick.

Hawk Cavette and Sanders are considered the best kickers, but Billy Gibson and Johnny Bosch are capable kickers. They go for distance. Tech can do a lot of things from punt formation and kicking is only one of them.

Tech is the clever attacking force and may have the Irish

TEACHER, PUPIL CLASH TONIGHT IN MACON GAME

Carson-Newman To Battle Mercer Eleven at Centennial Stadium.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 5.—(P)—It will be teacher versus pupil at Centennial Stadium here tomorrow night when Mercer attempts a football comeback against little Carson Newman, of Tennessee.

The teacher is Lake Russell, athletic director and head coach of the Mercer forces, who is a graduate and a former coach—for seven years—of the Carson Newman Eagles.

The pupil is "Frosty" Holt, who won four major sports letters during Russell's regime at the Tennessee institution and later became the big man's assistant at Carson Newman.

He succeeded Russell at the helm, when the latter took over the reins at Mercer in 1929.

Russell, on the succeeding autumn, invited Holt and his Eagles down to Macon for a "post-graduate" test in football lore.

And little Carson Newman, rising up out of a sea of mud, upset the Bruins, 13-6, to the accompaniment of a disappointed Mercer uproar that was heard above the sound of pounding rain.

It will be Mercer's final tuneup for the rugged campaign ahead with the powerhouse of the Southeastern conference, Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia.

SCHMELING PEACEFUL.

fighting from behind a lot of the time on Saturday. It could happen.

BUT THEY HAVE A LOT TO STOP.

It is seldom indeed that Notre Dame is held down in such manner as last Saturday when Purdue allowed five first downs and around 130 yards rushing—none passing.

Roy McArthur, Tech scout, insists that the Purdue line is one of the finest he has ever seen. And that defensively, line and backfield, Purdue is power. He admitted the attack was nothing to rave about.

Now, Tech's defense is untested. It hasn't looked any too good against Irish passes as executed by the "Bees." Which means it may be vulnerable to the Real McCoy.

Tech has a lot to stop on Saturday. Saggau, Sifko, Sheridan, Zontini, Piepul, Stevenson and one or two others are great backs. Sheridan, by the way, gave Tech a lot of trouble last season. He didn't play against Purdue.

It may be that Sheridan was held out purposely to run against Tech. This seems logical in view of the good work he turned in on Grant field.

Tech admittedly has its work cut out to stop the Irish. But the Irish unquestionably are going to find Tech almost as tough. Maybe just as tough.

Tech might make one play good for a touchdown. That is, score in one play. And a good tricky offense like the Jackets' could be the best defense against the Irish.

NO CHANCE FOR SCOUTING.

Notre Dame is having to rely on last year's notes to prepare against the Tech attack. And it assuredly is not the same attack.

There are certain formations that look the same, but Tech operates differently from these formations. New wrinkles, which provide greater deception, have been added.

There have been some great games played at South Bend, but it is reasonable to think that Irish fans may see the cleverest attack of all presented by the Yellow Jackets.

The Jackets thrilled fans from coast to coast last year. And, as said, they're putting it on bigger and better than ever this season.

THEY'LL AIR THEIR VIEWS.

John Fulton and Jack Kelly, sports standbys of WGST, will air their views of the game.

That is to say, Fulton will do the airing, with Kelly lending able assistance. The trip is quite a kick for them and Buchanan, who handles the technical side of the broadcasting.

None of them has been to South Bend before. And so the game will come to WGST listeners from the refreshing viewpoint of a commentator to whom a number of things pertaining to the game are new.

NORTH FULTON BEATS ROME, 7-0

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

A stream-lined, galloping, little speed merchant named Grey saw red in the last quarter of a football game at Dykes field in Buckhead last night, and personally took charge of a 60-yard march, and practically single-handed ran, sliced and slashed to the game's lone touchdown, to win a hard-fought N. G. I. C. tussle for North Fulton High's Bulldogs over a big, rugged Rome High eleven, 7-0.

Eddie Fraser scored the touchdown on a five-yard plunge, but it was swarthy Dick Grey who did most of the ball advancing in the one sustained march of the game. He also added the extra point by the line buck route. At no other time during the melee did either eleven get within 20 yards of the other's goal.

North Fulton, greatly outweighed, played a spirited and smarter game. The Bulldogs scored 13 first downs to Rome's nine, and gained 220 yards to the Romans' 146. Rambo and Beall, Bulldog captain, were standouts in a stubborn Bulldog defense, and Dixie Howell and Tidwell did stellar work in the losers' line. The fine punting, passing and running of Ed Stevens for the invaders all but matched Dick Grey's fine performance. Stevens was aided and abetted by some nice halfbacking by hard running Harold Harber.

A colorful half-time exhibition by Rome High's 110-piece student band and a squadron of 28 majorettes, all gaily toggled in blue and gold, all but eclipsed the performance of the grid warriors themselves. The gay attraction thrilled the 2,000 spectators who turned

M'ADAMS FACES PURDIN TONIGHT

The southern light heavyweight wrestling tournament to decide an official 175-pound champion will get underway tonight at Warren Arena. Jack McAdams, former claimant of the crowd, meets Gentleman Jack Purdin, Arizona cowboy, in the main event.

Officials are putting up a valuable and handsome belt for the winner of this tournament, which will run two or three months and attract many of the game's leading grapplers. There have been a number of matmen who claimed the lightweight crown in the past, but they have no records on which to actually base those claims.

Tonight's semi-final will bring together Eddie Pope, former Skull, who is another contender in the tournament, against Cyclone Burns, the speedy Louisville, Ky., boy.

At 8:30, Larry Tillman, of Houston, Texas, will go into action against Andrew Spellos, youthful Greek who formerly was an outstanding Olympic campaigner. Regular low prices will be in effect.

Strict officiating will be in effect during the tournament.

WITT NOT ABLE TO START GAME; JOHNSON IS OUT

Return of Vassa Cate Expected to Bolster Georgia's Offense.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 5.—Cheered by Furman's surprise showing against the Army, 10,000 fans are expected to jam Sirmine stadium here tomorrow night for the Hurricanes' battle with Wallace Butts' Georgia Bulldogs.

Football enthusiasm is at a new high among the many homecoming fans here tonight and betting odds here are only slightly in favor of Georgia.

In fact, many so-called experts flatly predict Dizzy McLeod's eleven to win the nocturnal game.

PICKS FURMAN. Here is what Jimmie Thompson writes in the Greenville Piedmont:

"That homecoming game should be a lulu. All the old grads will be back to look the boys over and they're coming back with high hopes in their hearts because of the fine game with Army. We're going out on a limb and picking Furman—with a tongue in the left cheek."

That is the general opinion prevailing here. However, the Bulldogs are in another frame of mind. Despite a couple of injuries, the Athens Eleven are going into the battle with colors flying.

Smiley Johnson, senior guard and one of the best players in the South, was left behind when the Bulldogs left Athens today. He is suffering from a bad cold and hasn't been released from the university infirmary.

Lewis Woodruff, sophomore fullback who played well against The Citadel, was also left behind because of injuries.

MALONE OUT.

While his absence will hurt the Bulldogs most, a couple of other injuries are causing concern in Butts' camp. Tommy Malone, one of the best defensive ends on the squad, was also left behind with a bruised knee.

Cliff "Truck" Kimsey, ace sophomore tailback, has an injured ankle and although he'll be able to play, won't be able to go at full speed.

Georgia's center position is also somewhat acute. Tommy Witt is along on the trip, but won't be used unless necessary because of a knee injury. Steve Hughes will start the game and Marion Wilkes is the only other pivot man available.

On the other side of the ledger, Captain Vassa Cate has recovered from an injury which kept him from Georgia's opener and will be ready to step against the Hurricanes.

Georgia completed pre-game workouts last night with a light drill under the lights at the stadium. Passes and punting occupied most of the time.

Coach Butts has worked hard on pass defense against the tresses of Roter Shelley, Furman fullback, and Georgia expects to see if he is as good as he's cracked up to be.

AERIAL DEFENSE.

Likewise, Dizzy McLeod has worked long and hard perfecting an aerial defense against the tosses of Billy Mims, Kimsey and Henry Powers. The Furman eleven showed a weakness in this department against the Army and had better be on their toes for the Bulldogs who boast several fine receivers in addition to Mims' throwing arm.

Georgia's Jim Fordham, after a disappointing showing against The Citadel, is all set for a good night. The big fullback has shown up better in scrimmages this week than at any time this season and Georgia coaches are expecting him to do a lot of damage to the Hurricane line.

Johnson Moore, Furman letterman center, who has been out with injuries, will return for the game, giving McLeod full strength for the Bulldogs.

Despite all the advance Furman ballyhoo, it still looks like Georgia by a couple of touchdowns from here.

ner, Alabama, on the road to the championship match.

A red-hot putter which paved the South Carolina road into the final match cooled off considerably and coupled with a bit of wildness it seemed at most critical holes, could not match the machine-like play of the two North Carolina champions.

The North Carolina triumph marked the first time the handsome Bobby Jones trophy has left Atlanta since it was put into play three years ago. Charley Yates, Atlanta's former British open champ, teamed with Dick Garlington, of Atlanta, to win the inaugural and last year paired with Dr. Julius Hughes, another Atlantan, to keep the plaque here.

DUKE WORKS HARD.

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 5.—(P)—Duke University's footballers went through their stiffest drill of the week in preparation of Saturday's contest here against Colgate.

South 11's Underdogs In Williamson Ratings

In 281 games last week the Williamson football rating system was 85 per cent correct on predictions, which was a big drop from the previous week when the system was 93 per cent accurate. The drop was due to many fluke scores that surprised everybody.

This week Williamson goes right back out on the limb in some of the tough ones. In intercollegiate games he does not think so much of the southern clubs' chances of winning this week end. Little chance is given Georgia Tech, invading South Bend, to upset the Notre Dame outfit. Fordham is picked to nose out Alabama in New York, and Holy Cross is elected to take a fairly easy victory from the invading Louisiana State University forces. He thinks, however, the tough Texas A. & M. eleven will take into camp the Santa Clara Broncos in "quite easy" fashion.

In strictly southern games Williamson likes Tulane over Auburn and Kentucky over Vanderbilt, in two close ones; Mississippi State over Florida and Georgia over Furman, in fairly close ones. He expects Richmond to down Washington and Lee, Loyola to bump Birmingham-Southern, Rollins to take Stetson and Presbyterian to prove too potent for The Citadel.

Williamson almost breaks the limb in selecting Oklahoma to outscore Northwestern, Marquette to whip Kansas State, and Texas to tame Wisconsin. In other of the day's big games, he likes Columbia over Yale, T. C. U. to stop the Arkansas Razorback pass revue, V. M. I. to smother little Davidson, Cornell to out Syracuse, Missouri to out-distance Ohio State, and still point Pitt to roll over a staunch West Virginia.

EXPLANATION: Figure after each team is its rating according to the current Williamson Football Rating Table, published earlier this week. PROBABLE WINNER IS NAMED IN CAPITAL LETTERS. T, after visiting team's rating means tie game or loss; L, means prediction contrary to rating; N, night; S, Sunday.

BRITISH TO GO ON, JONES DECLARES

End of Hitlerism Is London's Aim, He Asserts.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Ralph T. Jones, associate editor of The Atlanta Constitution, told the Athens Lions' Club today he believed Great Britain was determined to continue war against Germany until "the last vestige of Hitlerism is wiped out, or until Britain is so helpless she can fight no more."

The Atlanta editor returned from England a few weeks ago, leaving just after England entered the war.

"I never saw a people so united for a single cause," he said in a prepared address. "There was no war hysteria, no excitement, but the people were going about a disagreeable task with a quiet determination that was the best assurance of ultimate victory."

Jones said he was convinced the United States should not enter the new European conflict and added Americans faced the duty of keeping "alive the spirit of democracy, to keep burning a torch of freedom from which the whole world, in some yet distant day, may relight its flames of liberty."

Japan's commercial fishermen catch the most fish by weight, of any country; but United States fishery products outrank Japanese in value.

MODEL PLANE CONTEST. ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 5.—Competition in Athens' second model airplane contest will open Friday night, October 20, when exhibition scale models will be judged at the annual American Legion fair.
